Every morning, the sun comes up, and a new day begins.

As soon as the sun starts to come up,
the rooster gets up, too.

He stretches his legs,

shakes his feathers,

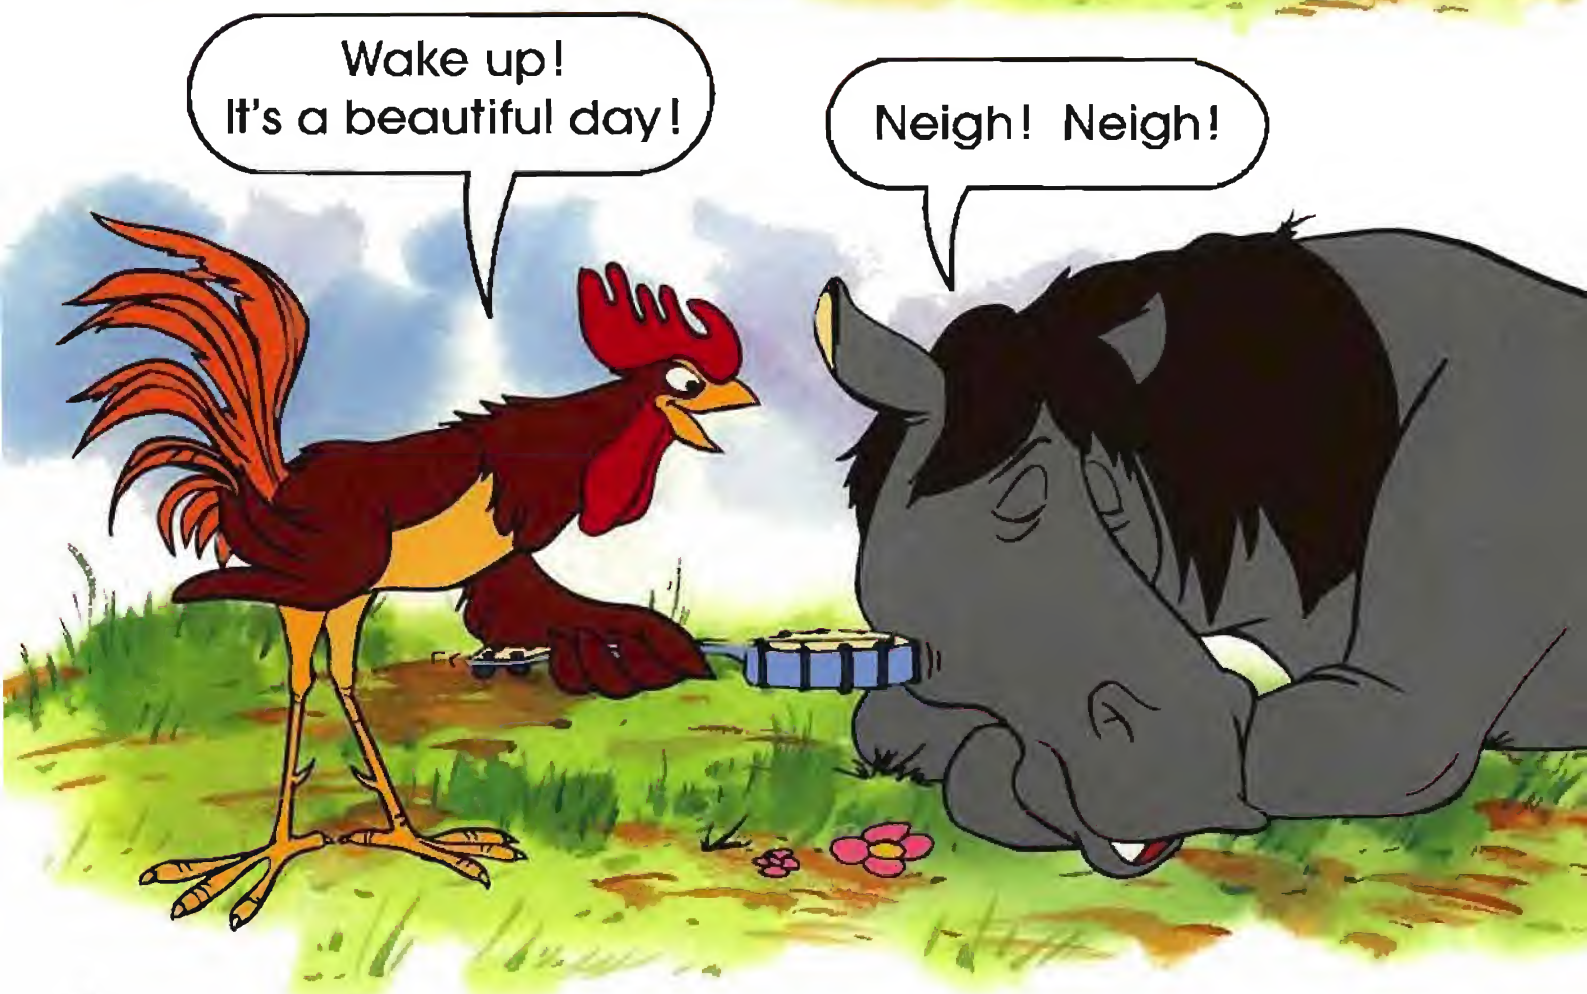

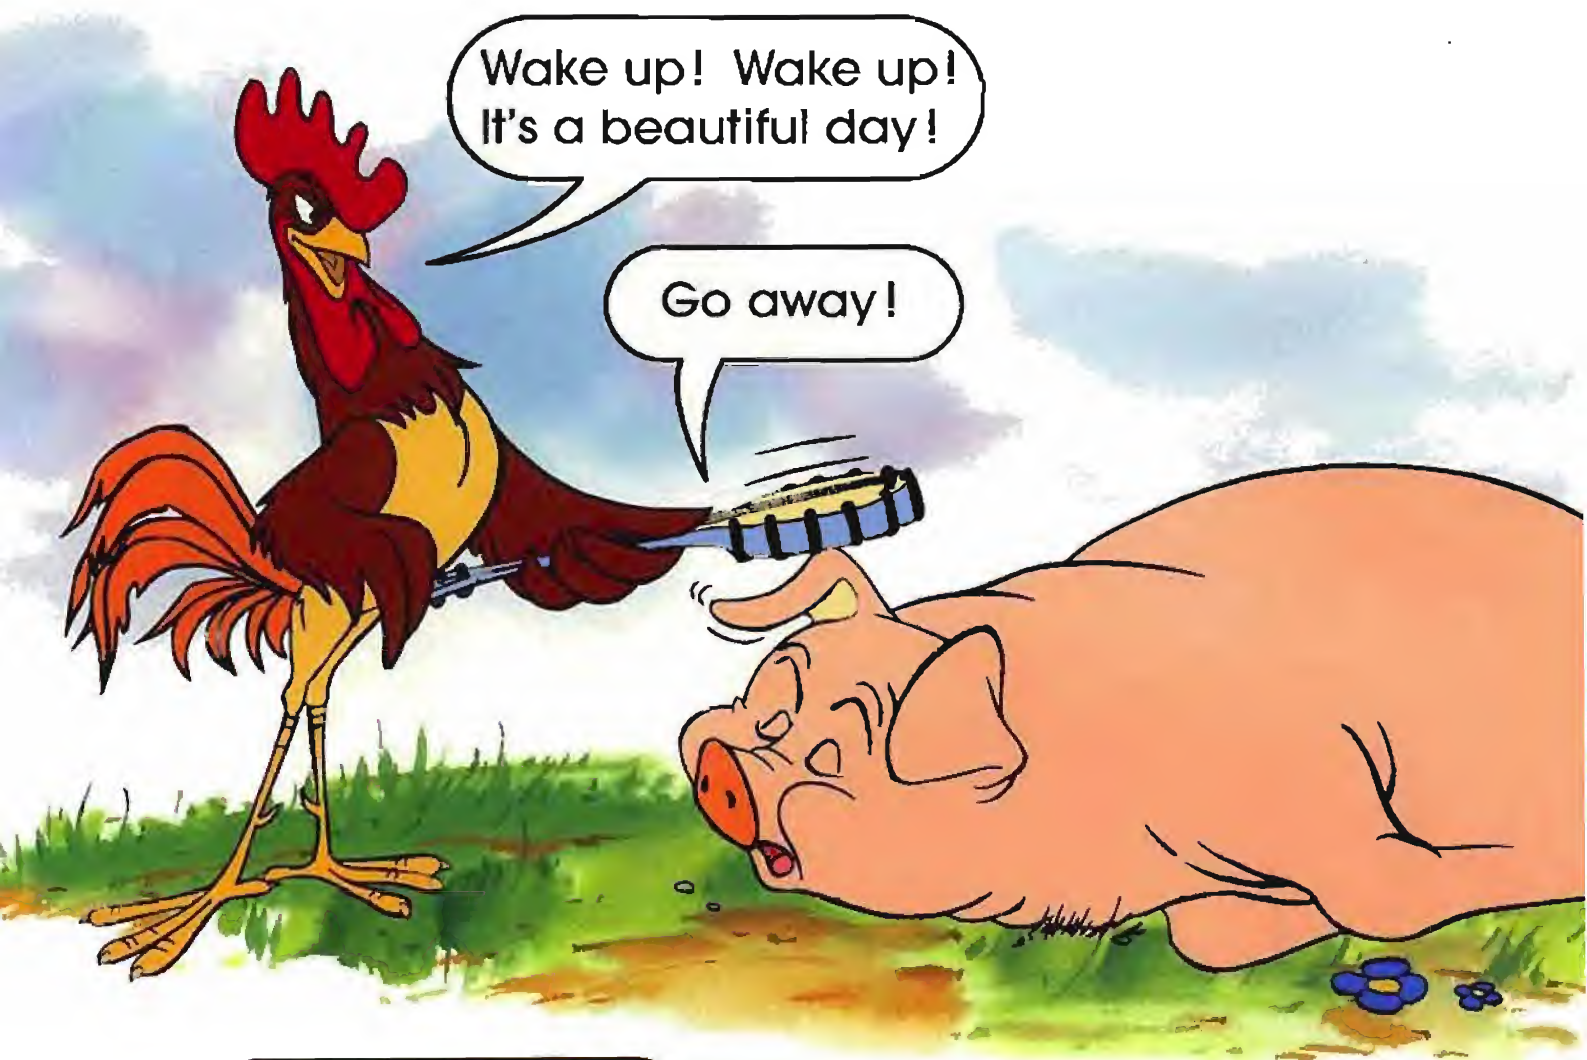

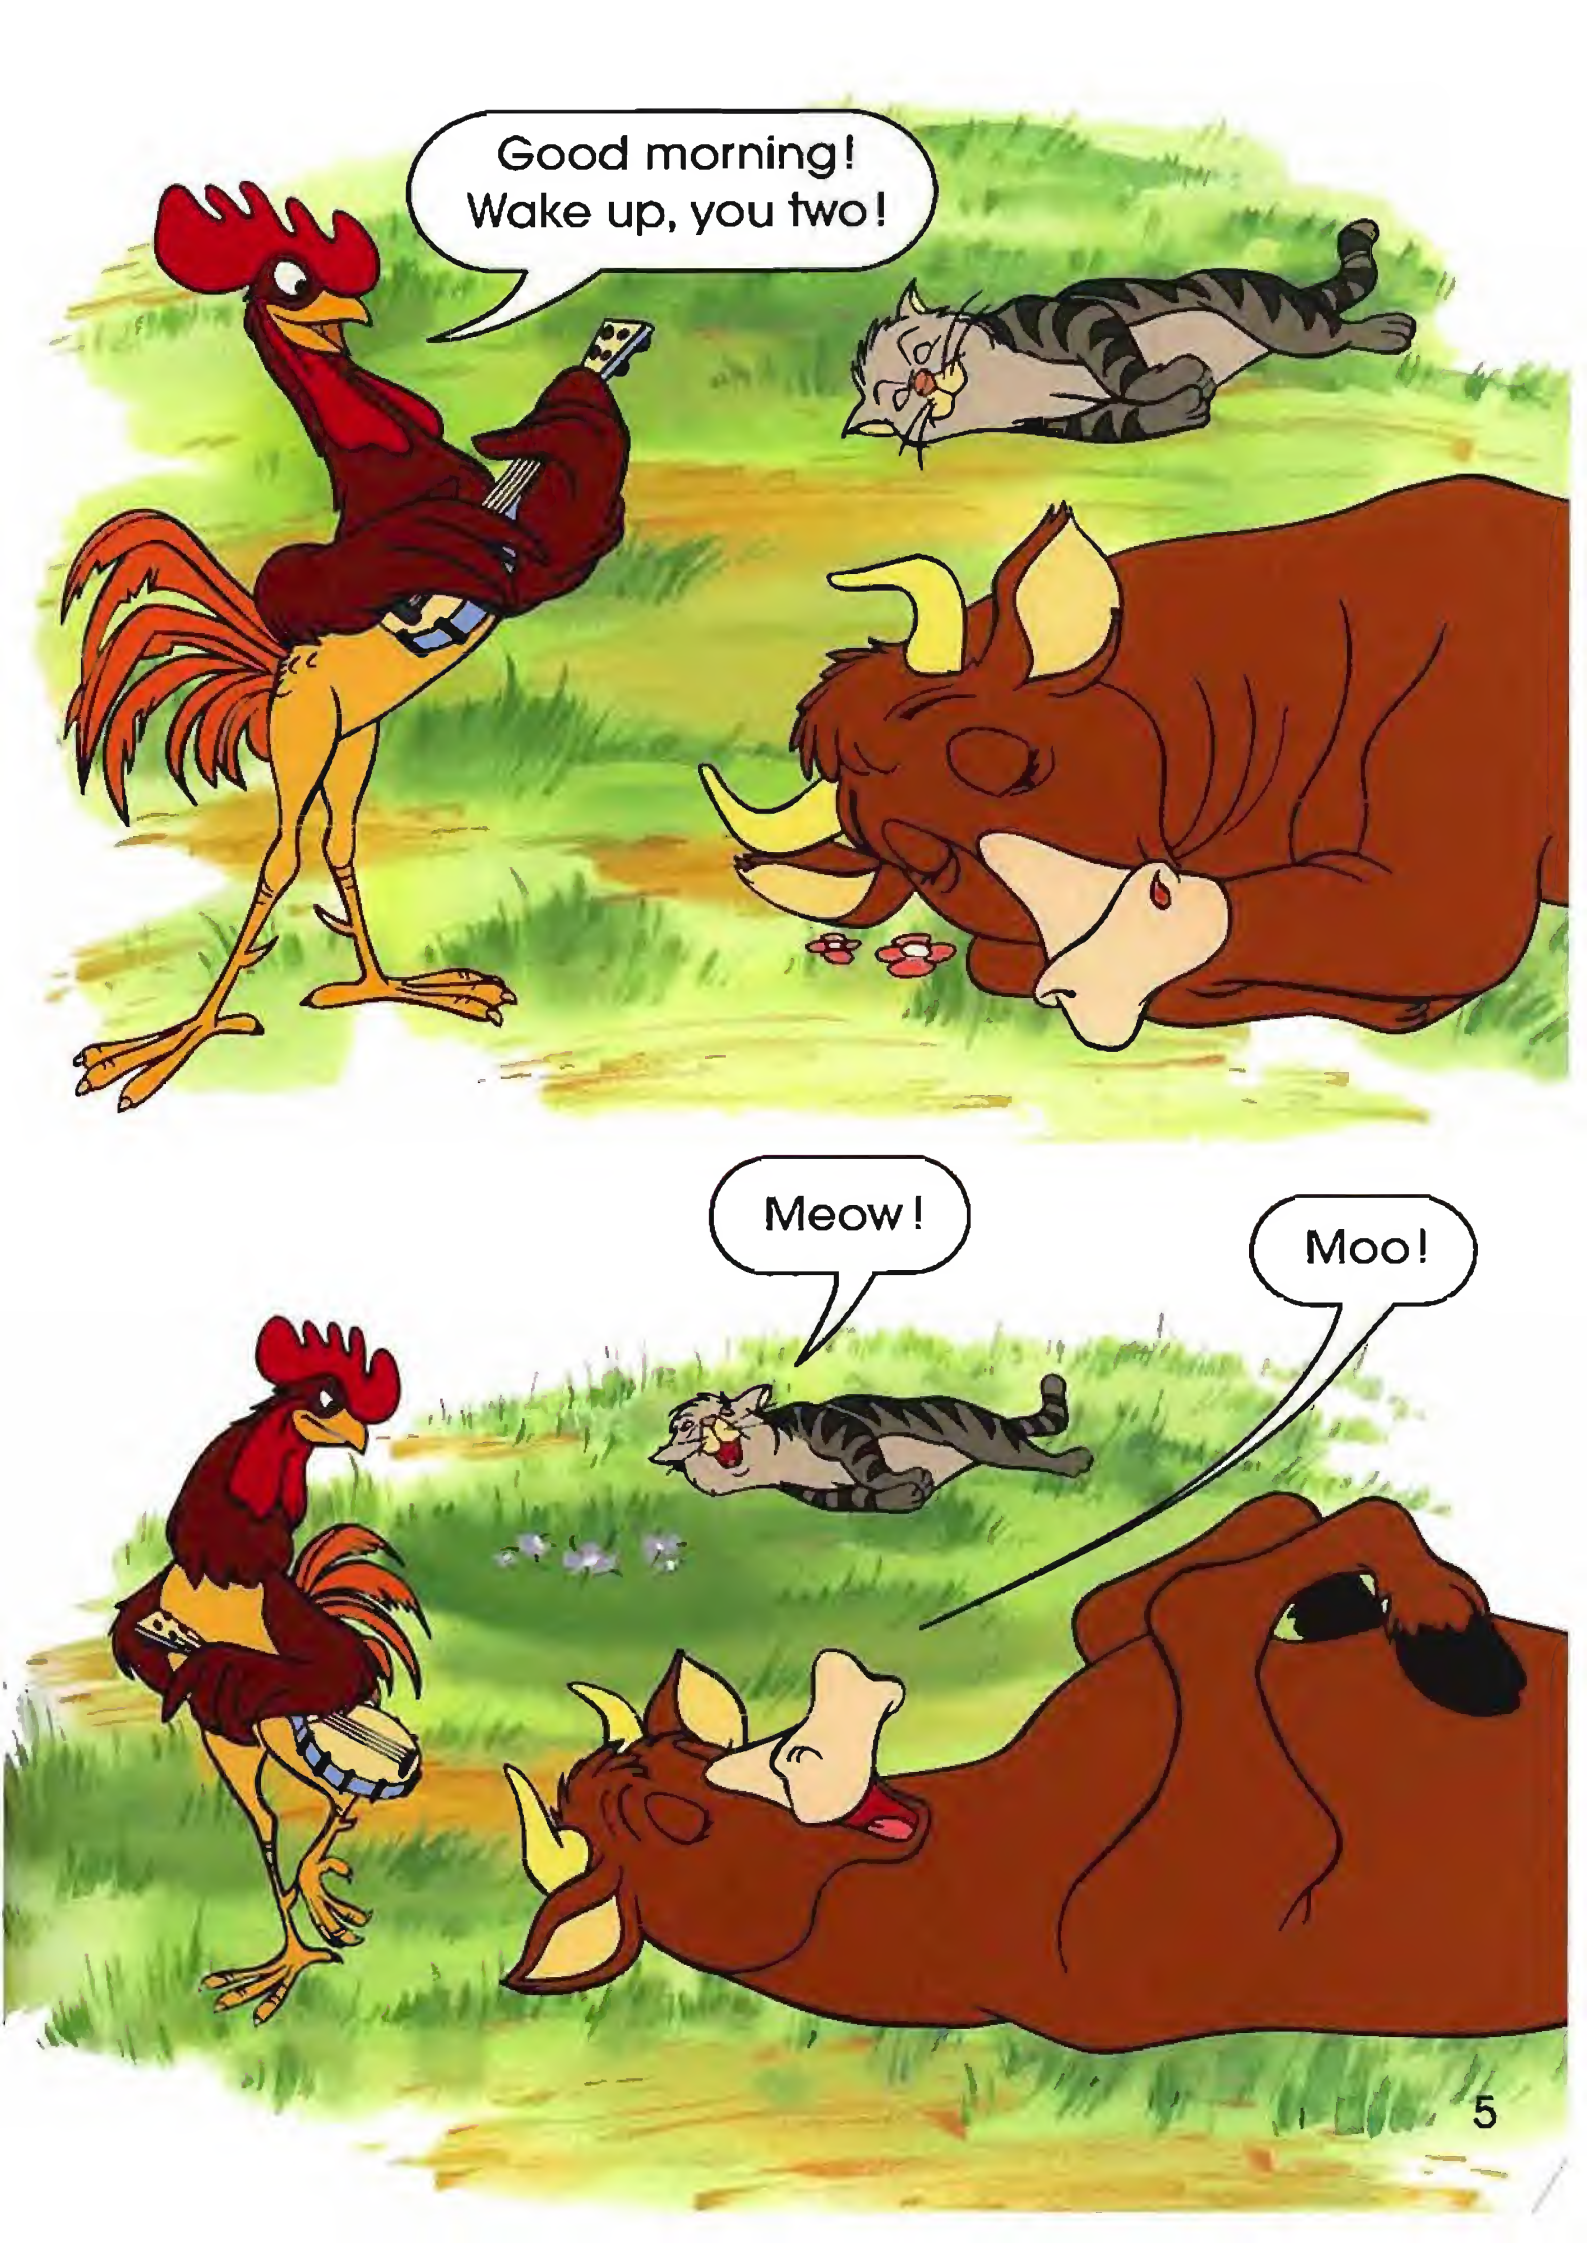

...and sings, "Cock-a-doodle-doo!"

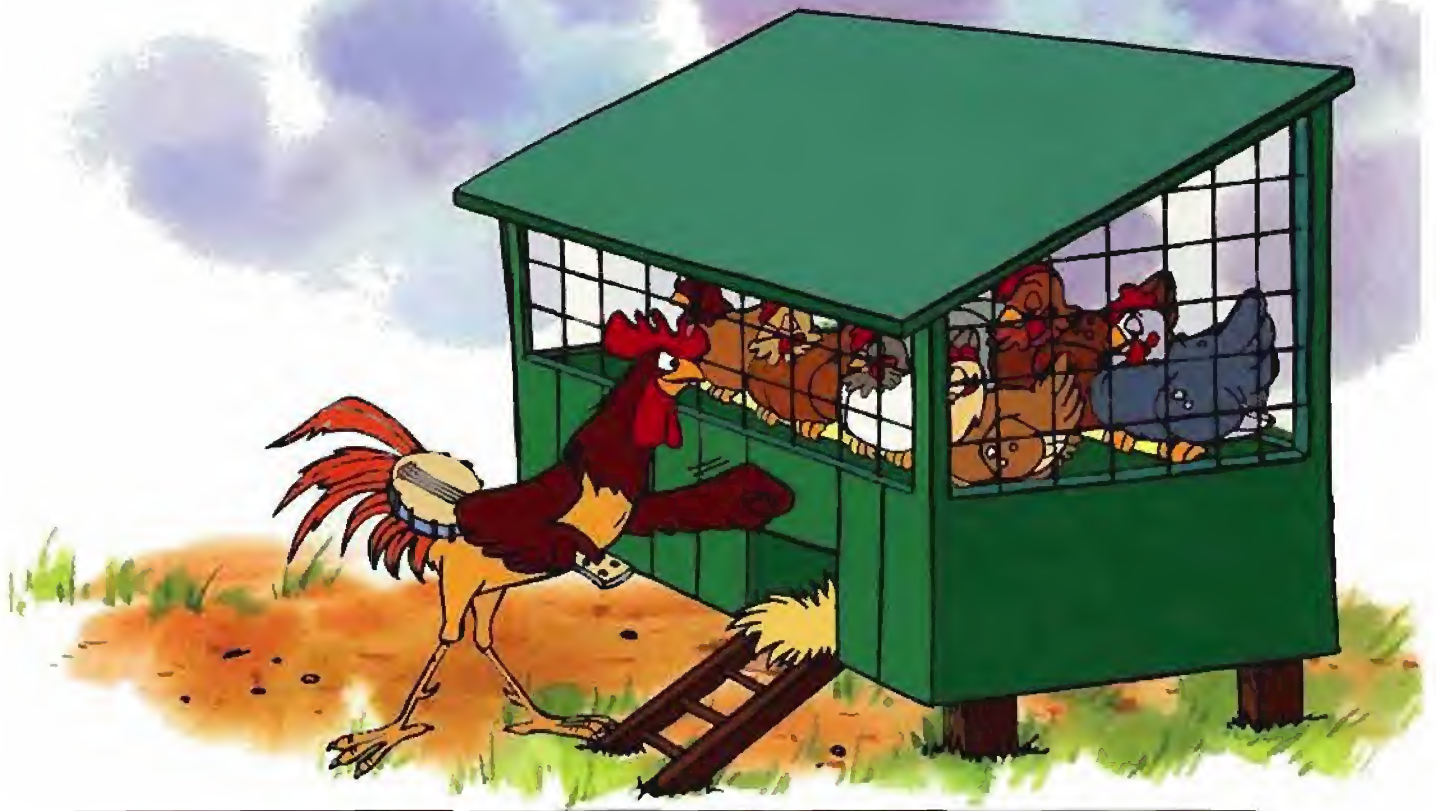

Good morning!
Wake up, you two!

Meow!

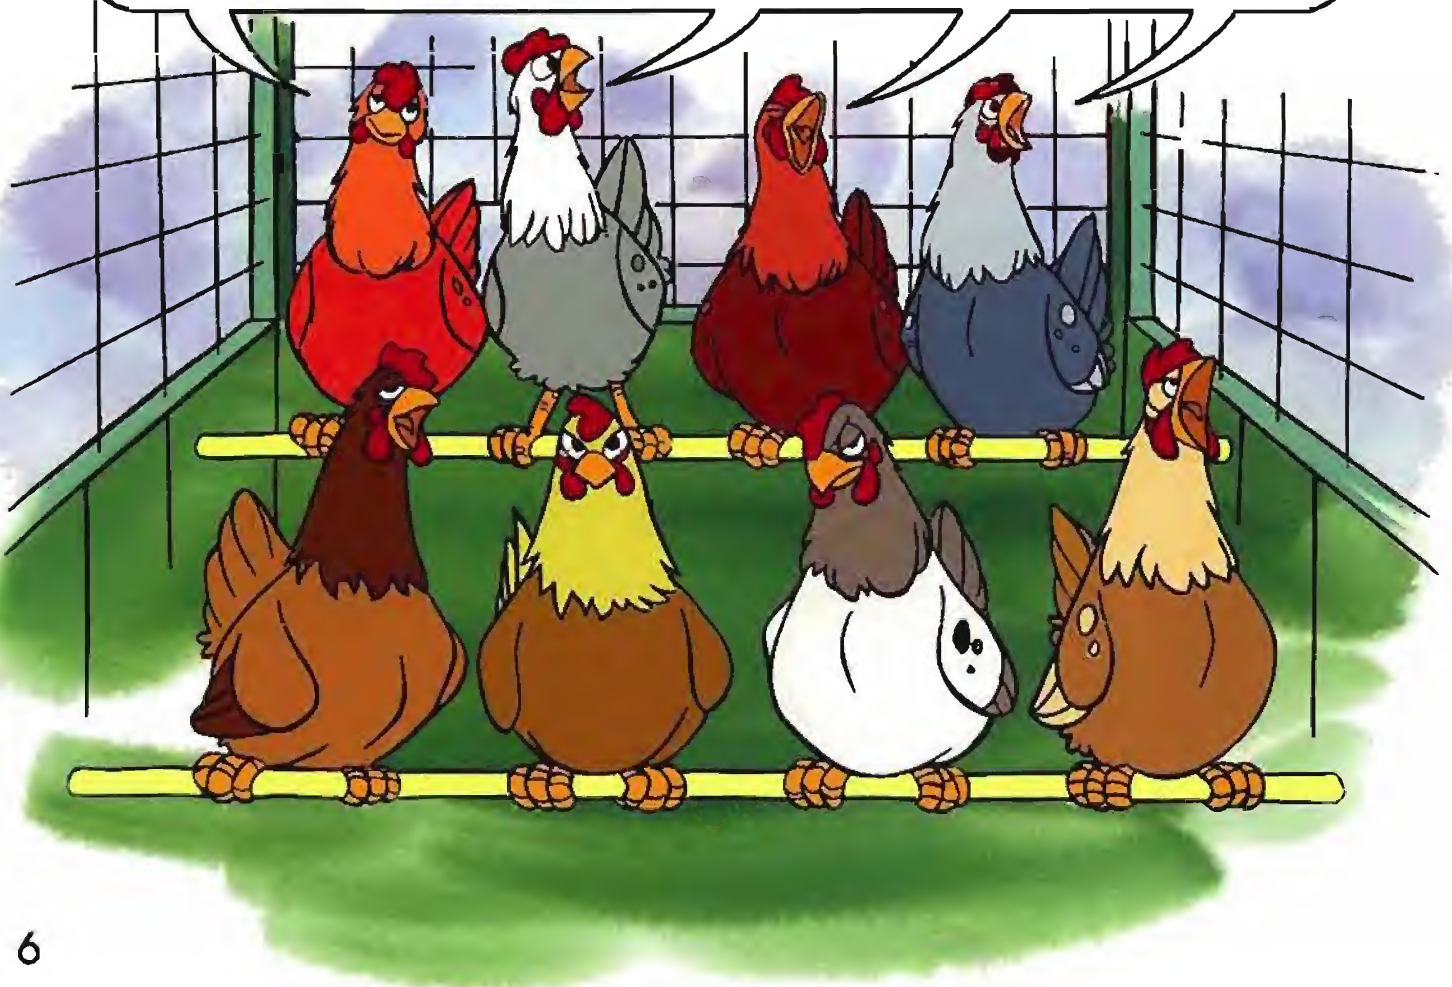

Moo!

The chickens are all still asleep in their house.
The rooster walks up and knocks on the door.

Go away, Rooster! We would like to sleep some more.

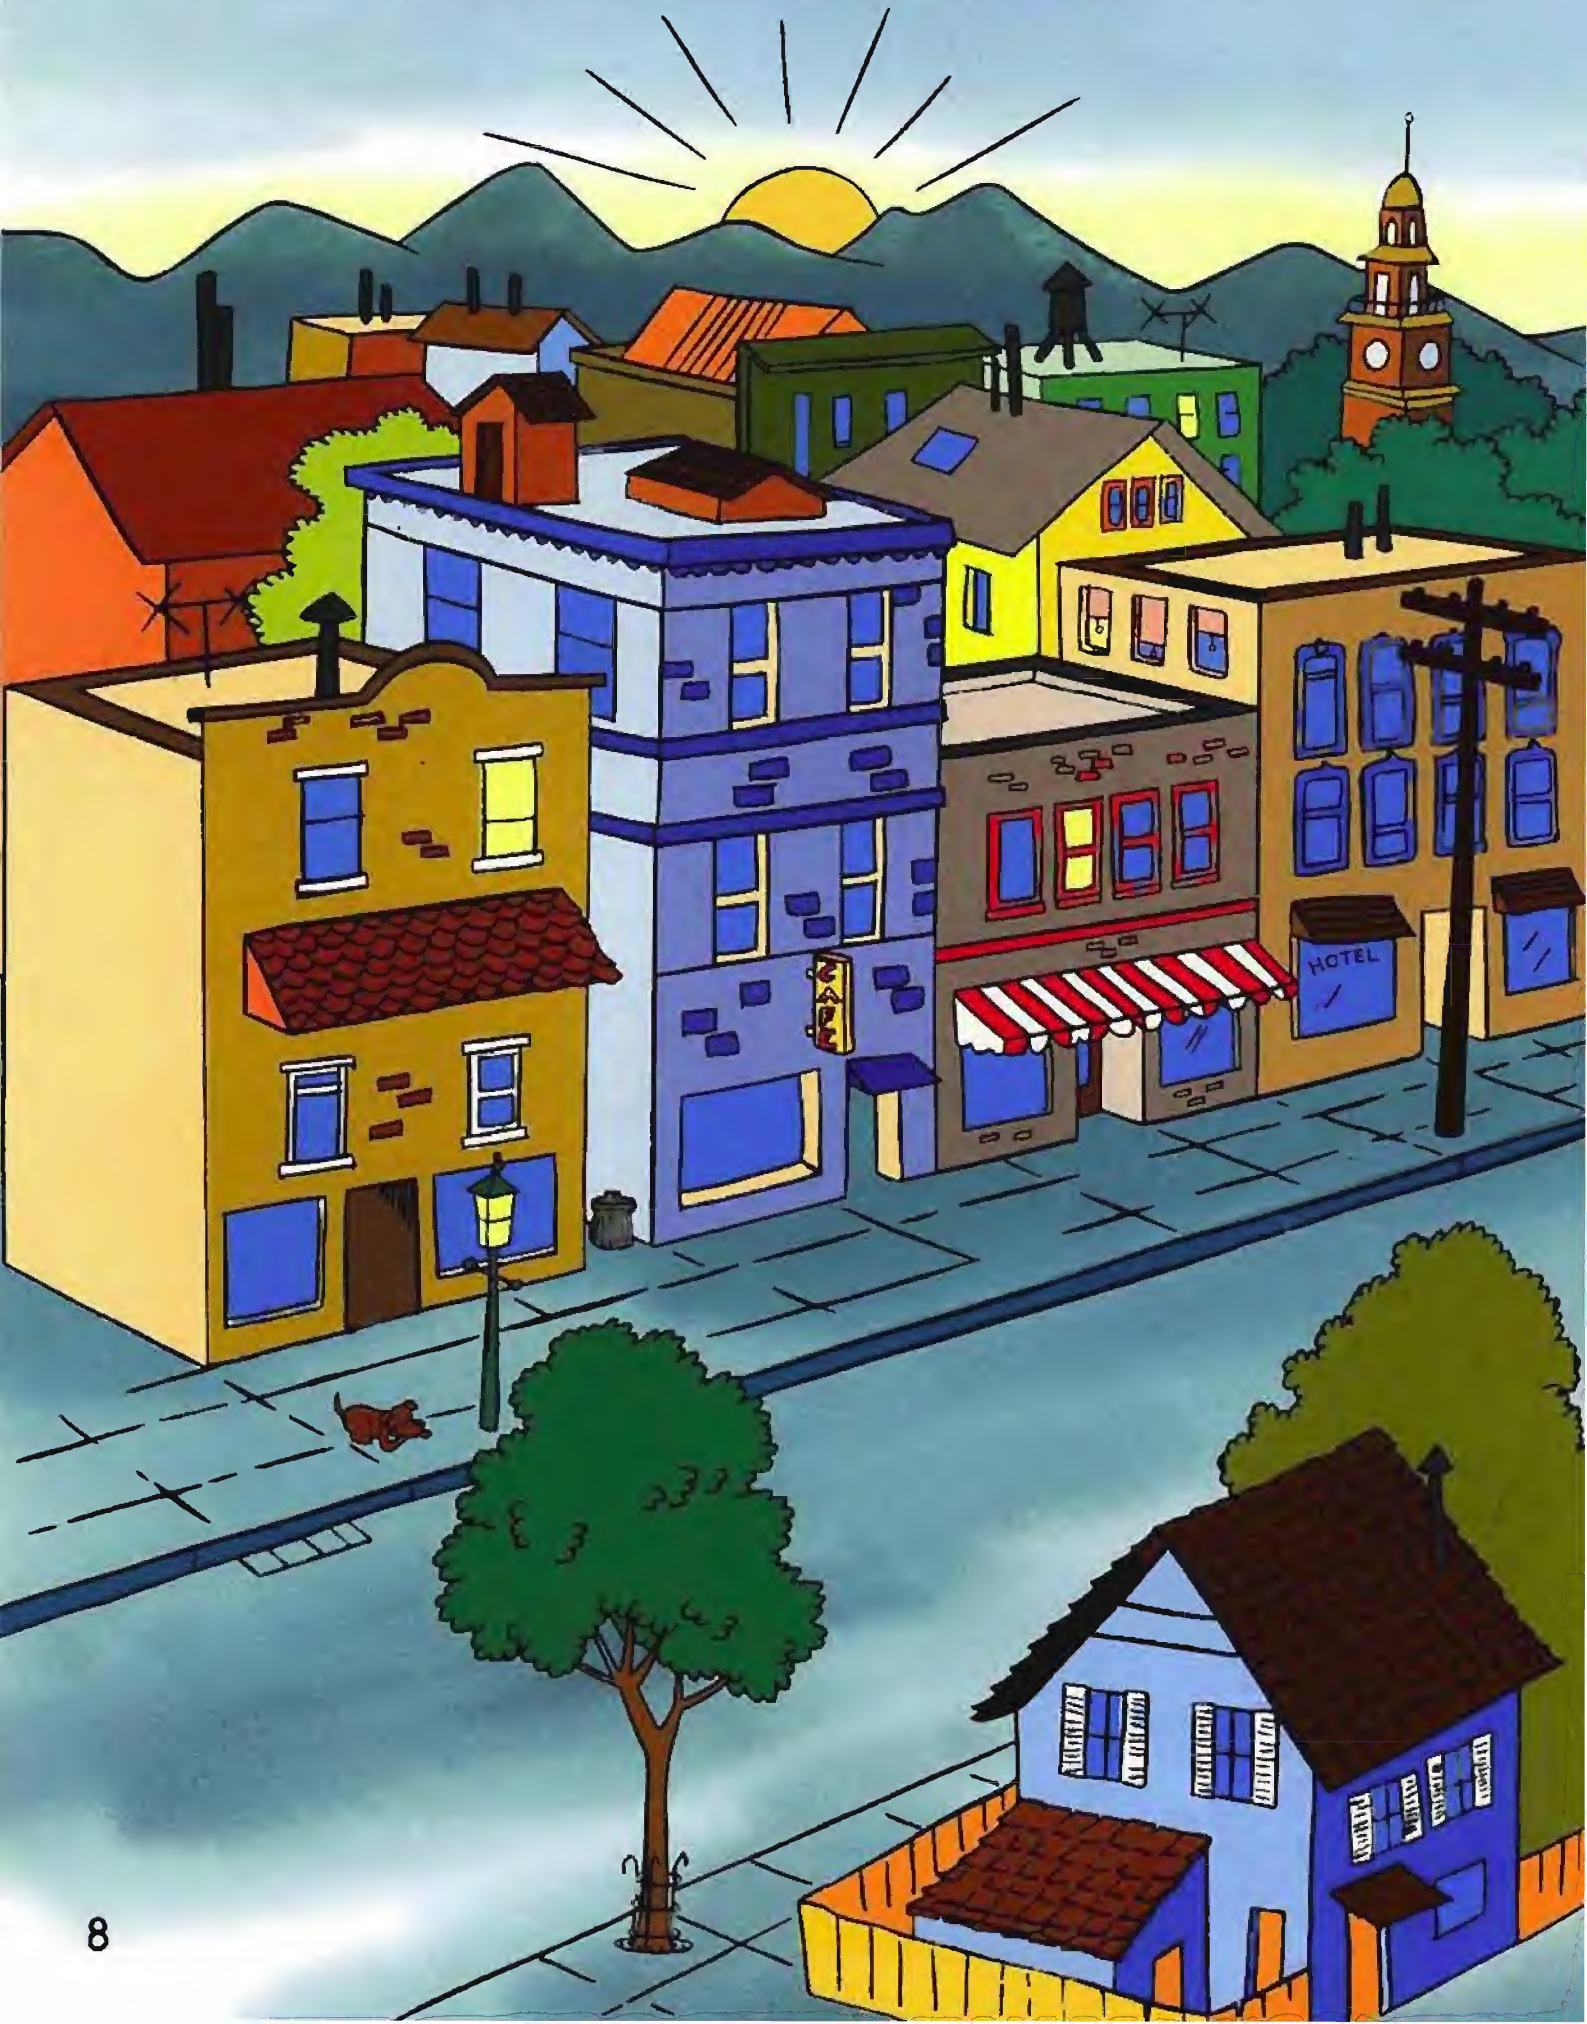

But all the chickens are wide awake,
And so are the horse and the cat and the cow.
And even the pig has opened his eyes,
For with so much noise, who could sleep now?

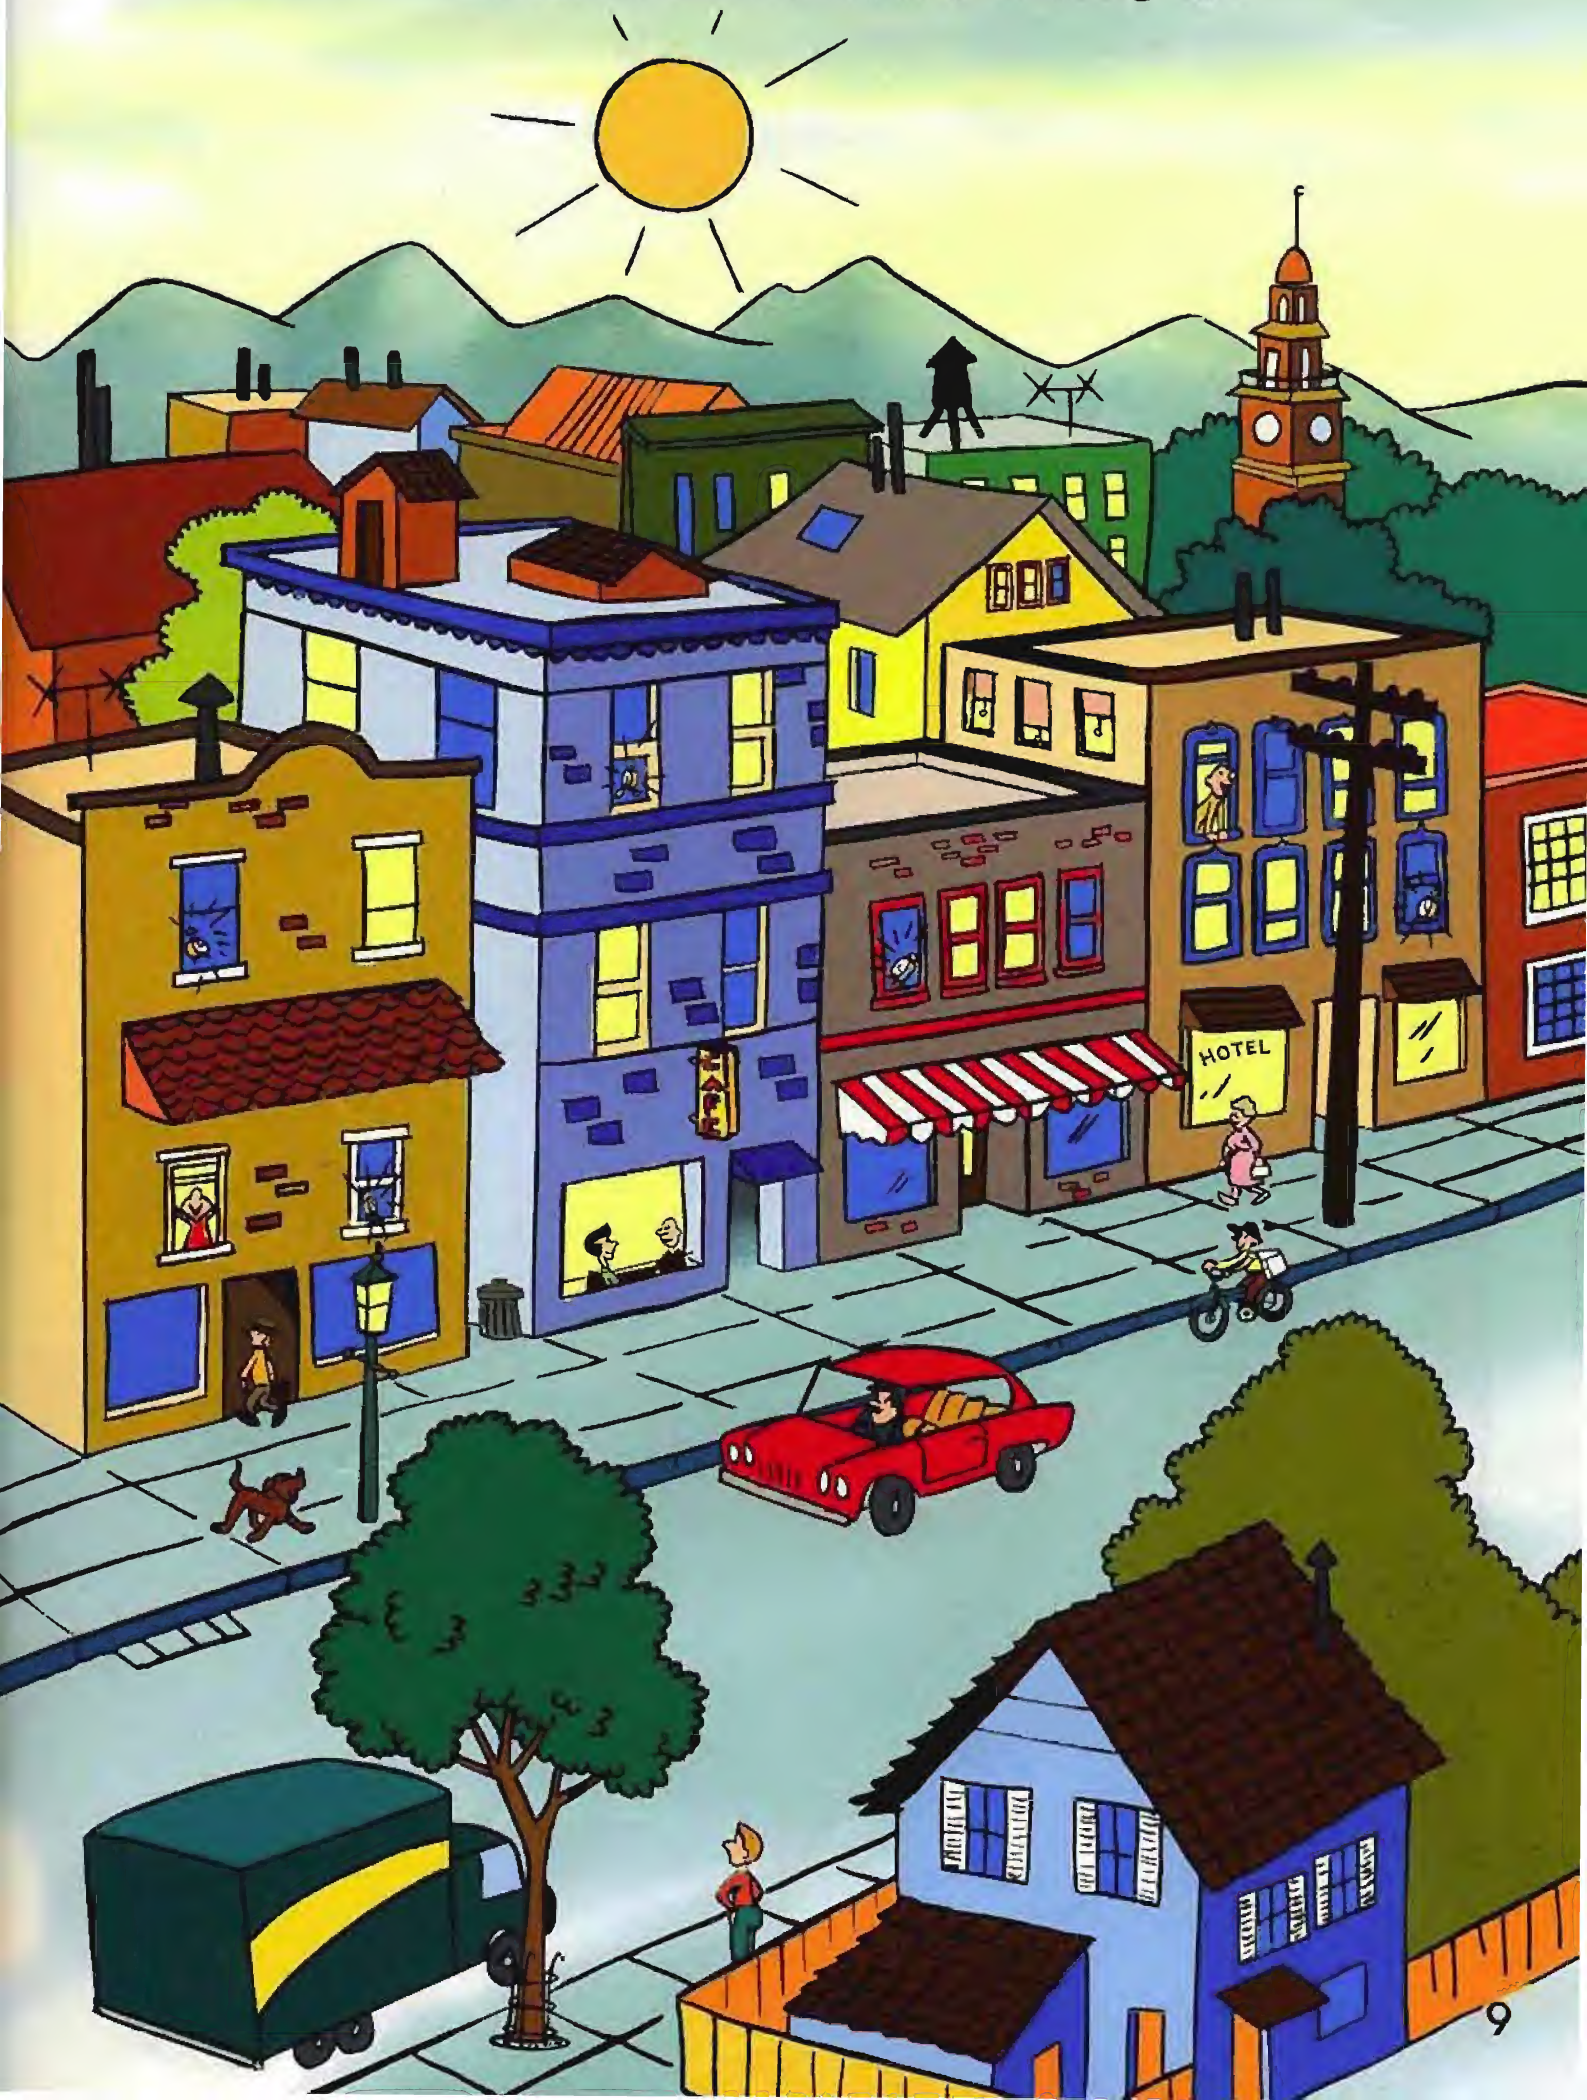

The country wakes up very early.
The city wakes up a little later.

Listen! Now the city is waking up.

We know it's time to get up when the alarm clock starts to ring.
It's very hard to sleep with so much noise!

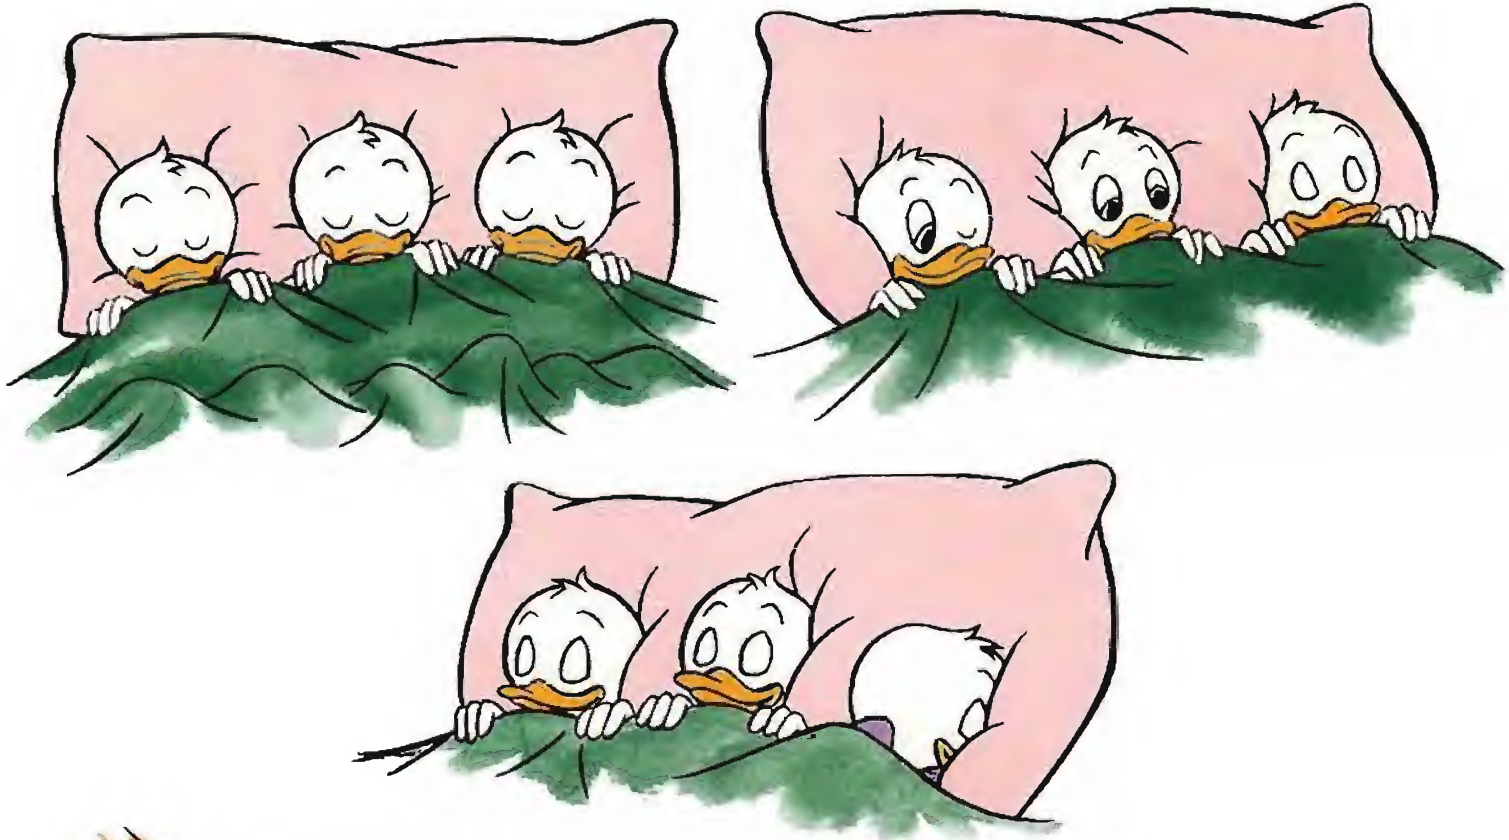

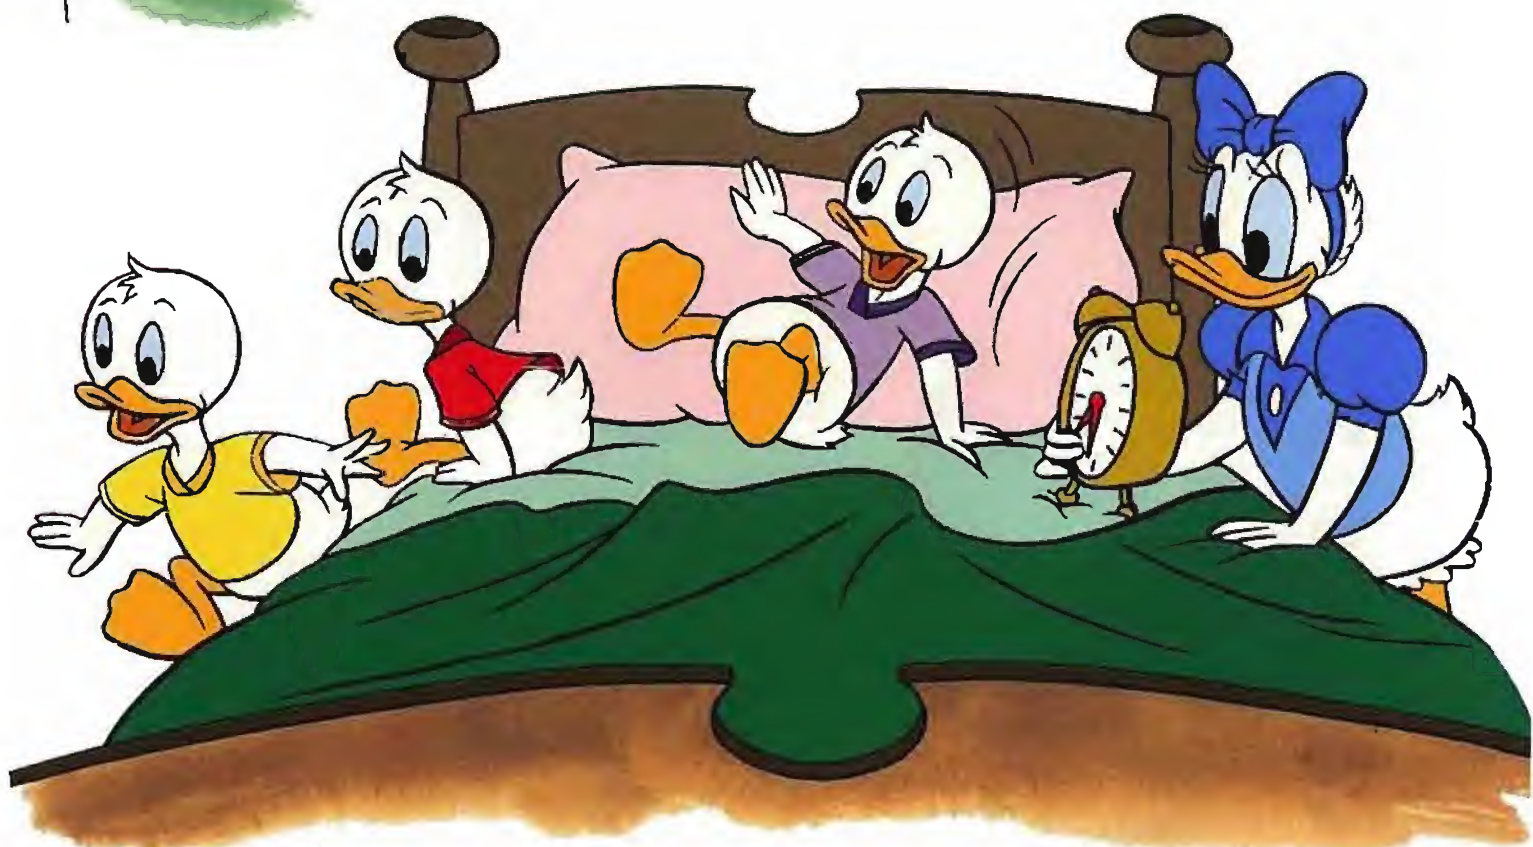

Daisy wakes Huey, Dewey, and Louie up.

Daisy goes upstairs and finds Huey, Dewey, and Louie—still in bed!

What?! Still in bed?!
Get up right now,
or you'll be late for school!

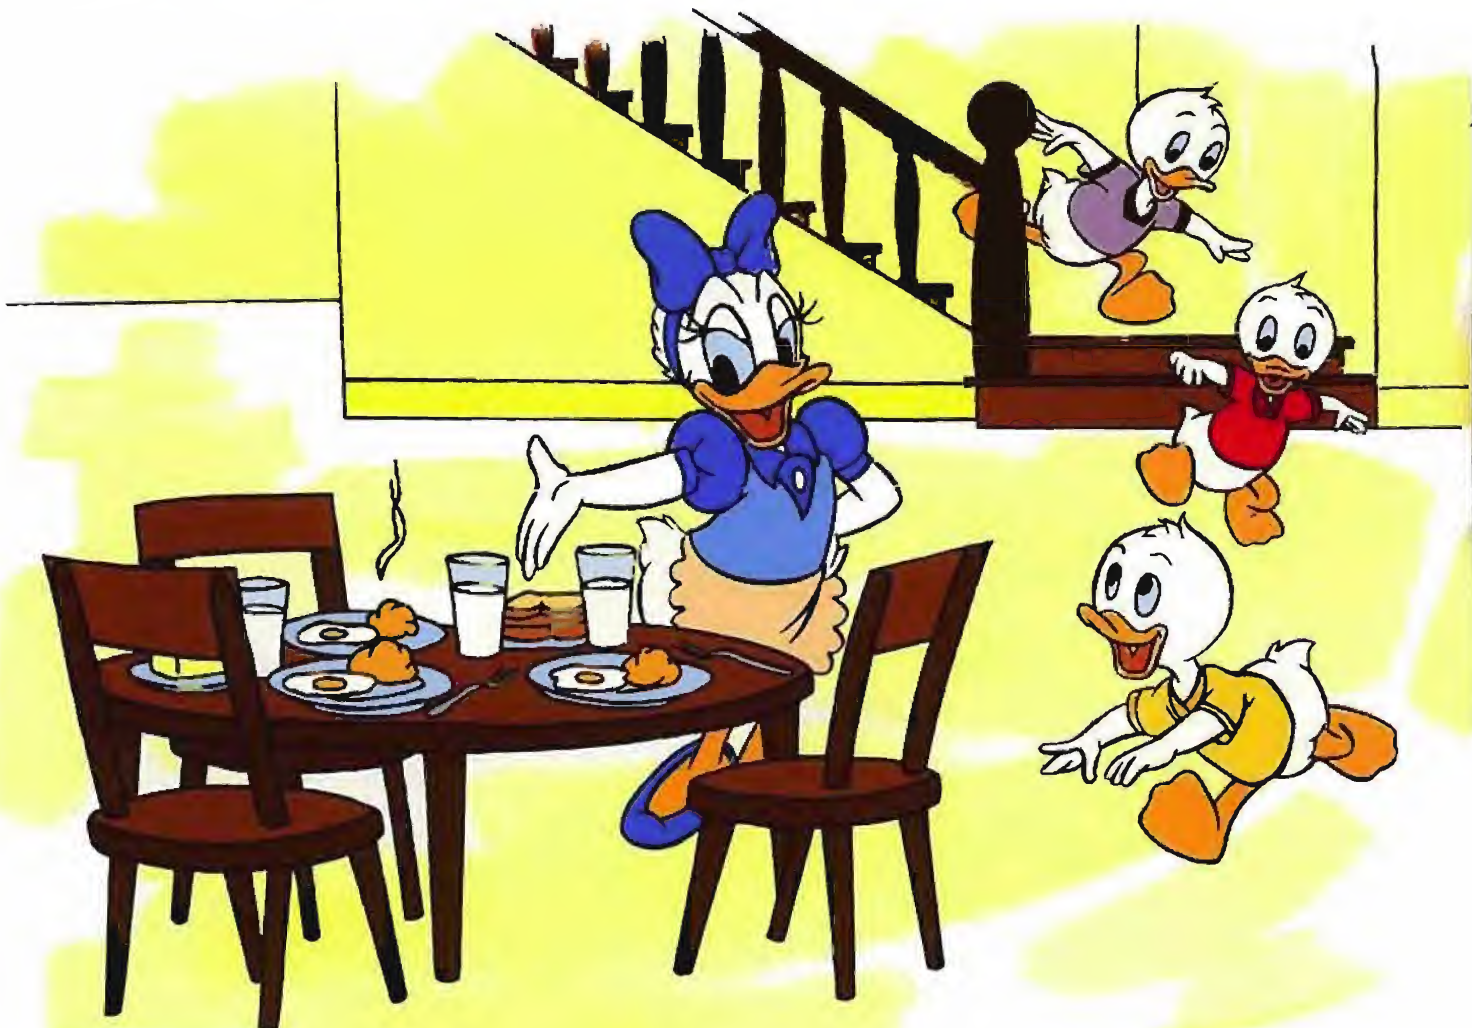

Huey, Dewey, and Louie get out of bed.

After they get up, they go to the bathroom and wash up.

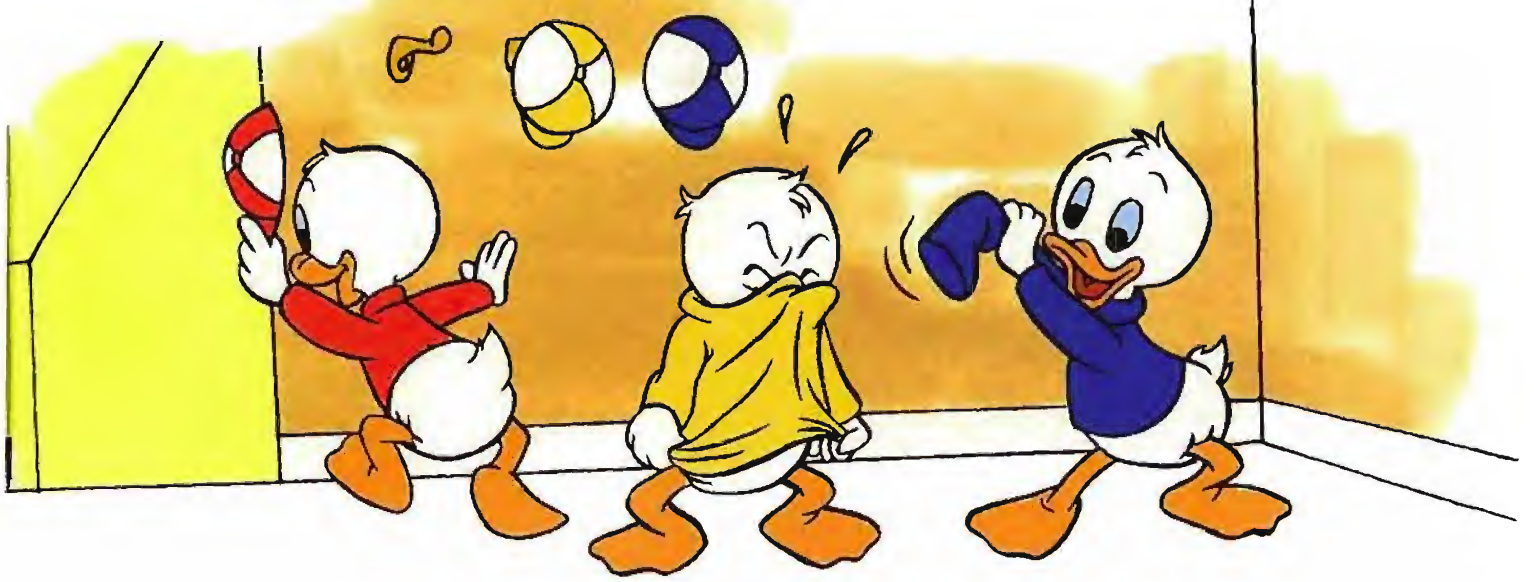

After they wash up, they rush downstairs to eat their breakfast.

After they eat breakfast,
Huey, Dewey, and Louie rush back upstairs to get dressed.

While they are getting dressed,
Daisy makes them sandwiches for lunch.

Donald is finally waking up.
First he opens one eye.

Then he opens the other eye.

Goofy is finally getting out of bed.
First he puts one foot on the floor.

Then he puts the other foot on the floor.

Mickey is washing up.
First he washes one side of his face.

Then he washes the other side of his face.

Chip is helping Dale wash up.
First he washes one side of Dale.

Then he washes the other side.

Before and After

Who gets up before everyone else?
Who gets up after everyone else?

Huey, Dewey, and Louie are almost out the door when Daisy sees Louie's lunch box on the table.

Don't forget your lunch, Louie!

Hurry up,
or you'll be late!

Goodbye! Goodbye!

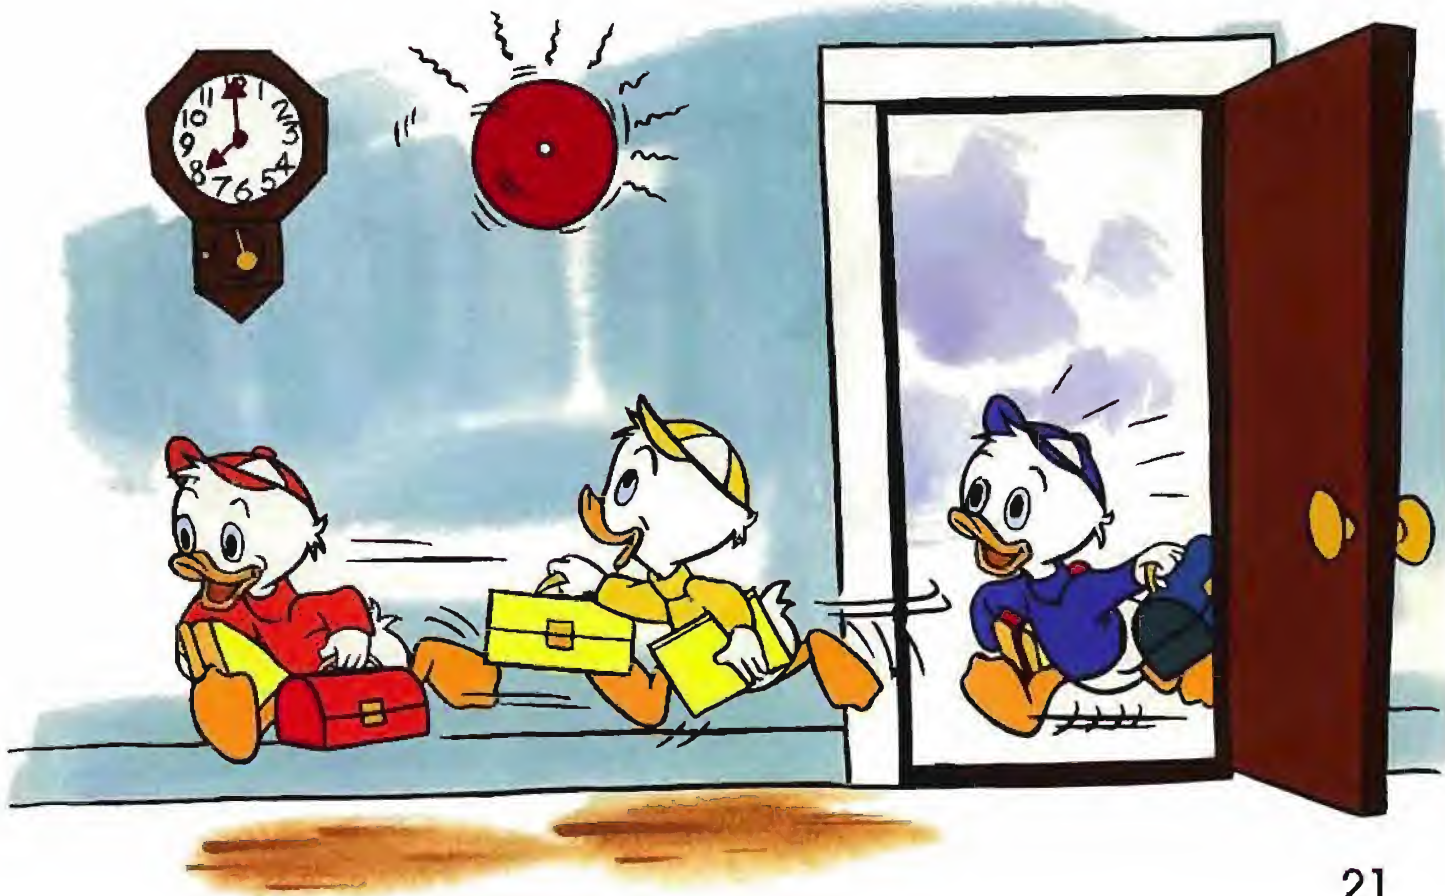

Usually Huey, Dewey, and Louie walk to school, but today they have to run because they are very late.

There's the bell! They get there just in time!

This is Huey, Dewey, and Louie's class, and this is their teacher.

Huey, Dewey, and Louie learn a lot of things in school.

They learn how to read.

They learn how to write.

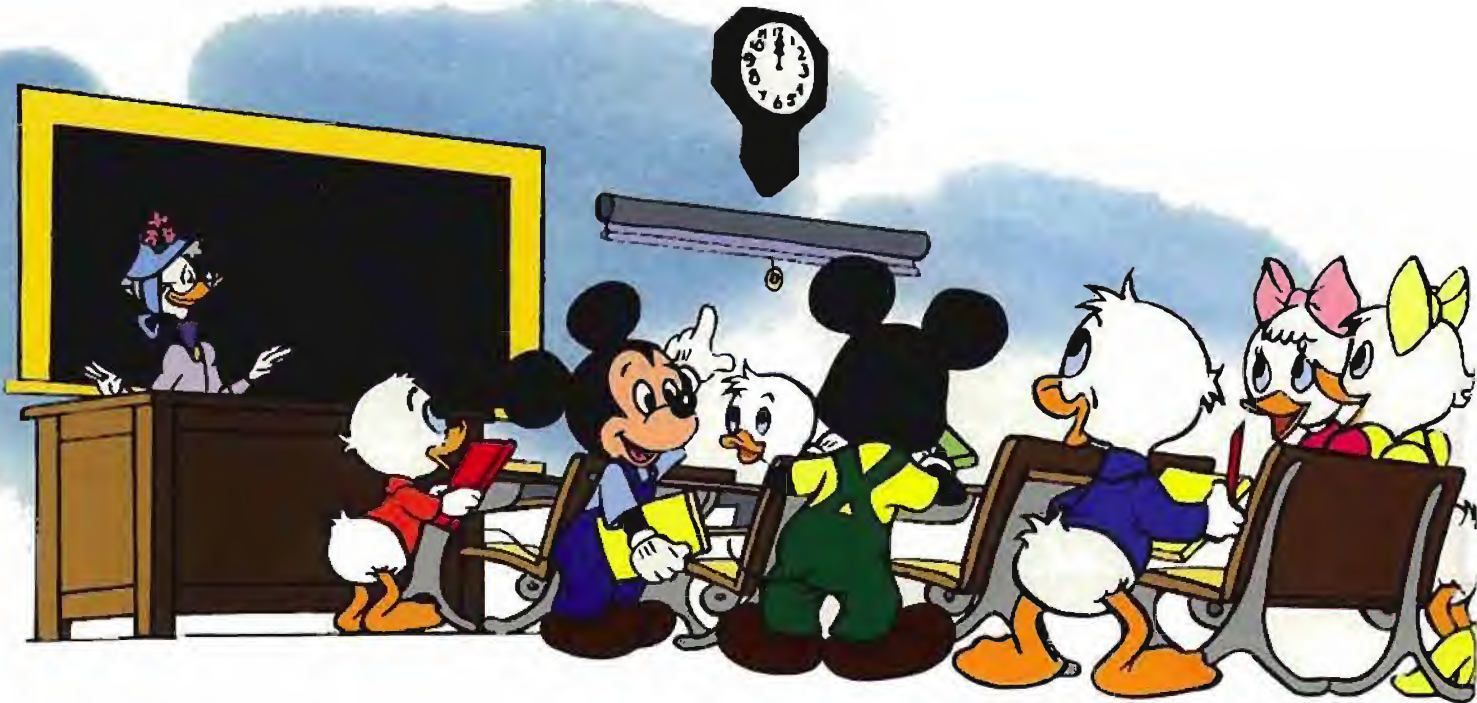

They learn how to add numbers together.

How much is 2 and 2?

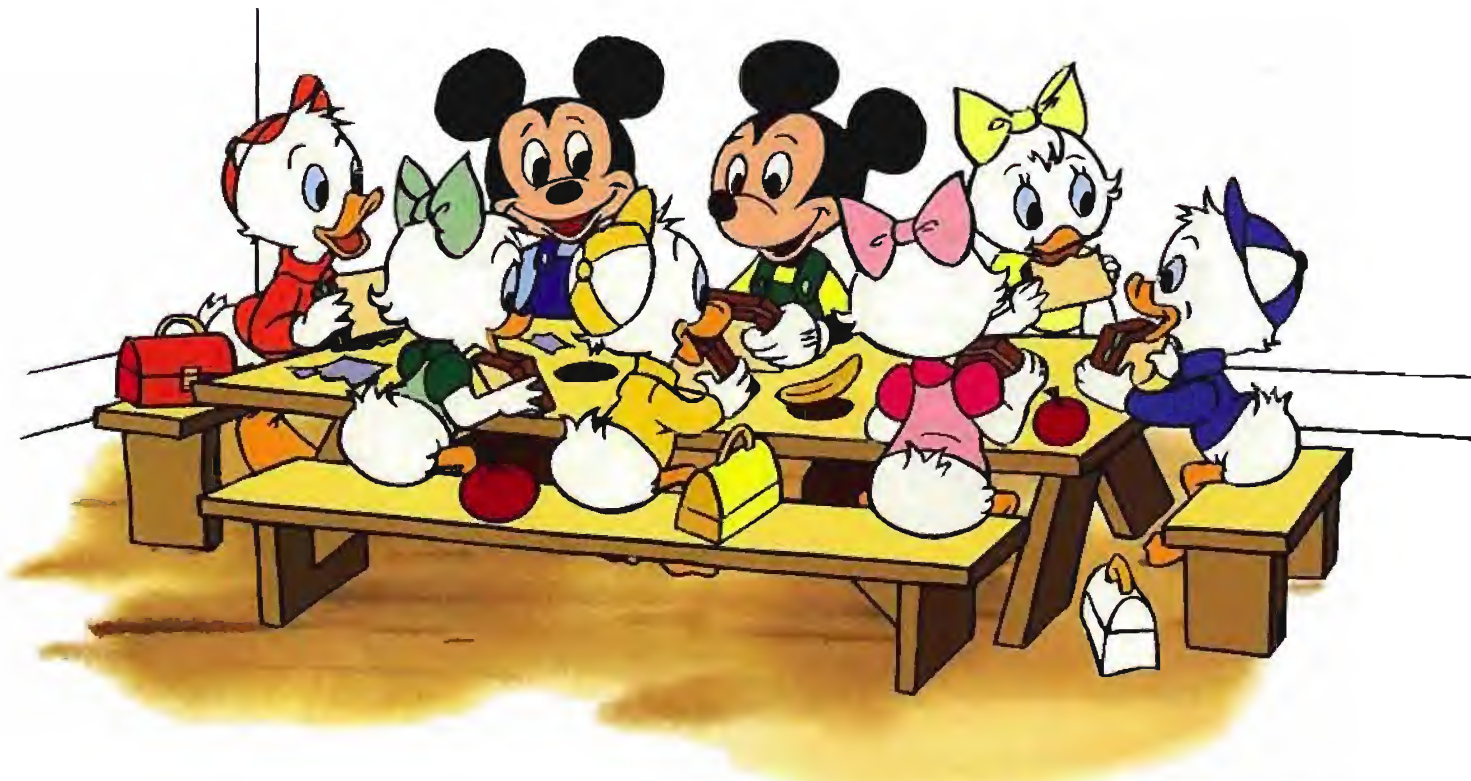

Look at the clock.
It's twelve o'clock noon—time to eat lunch.

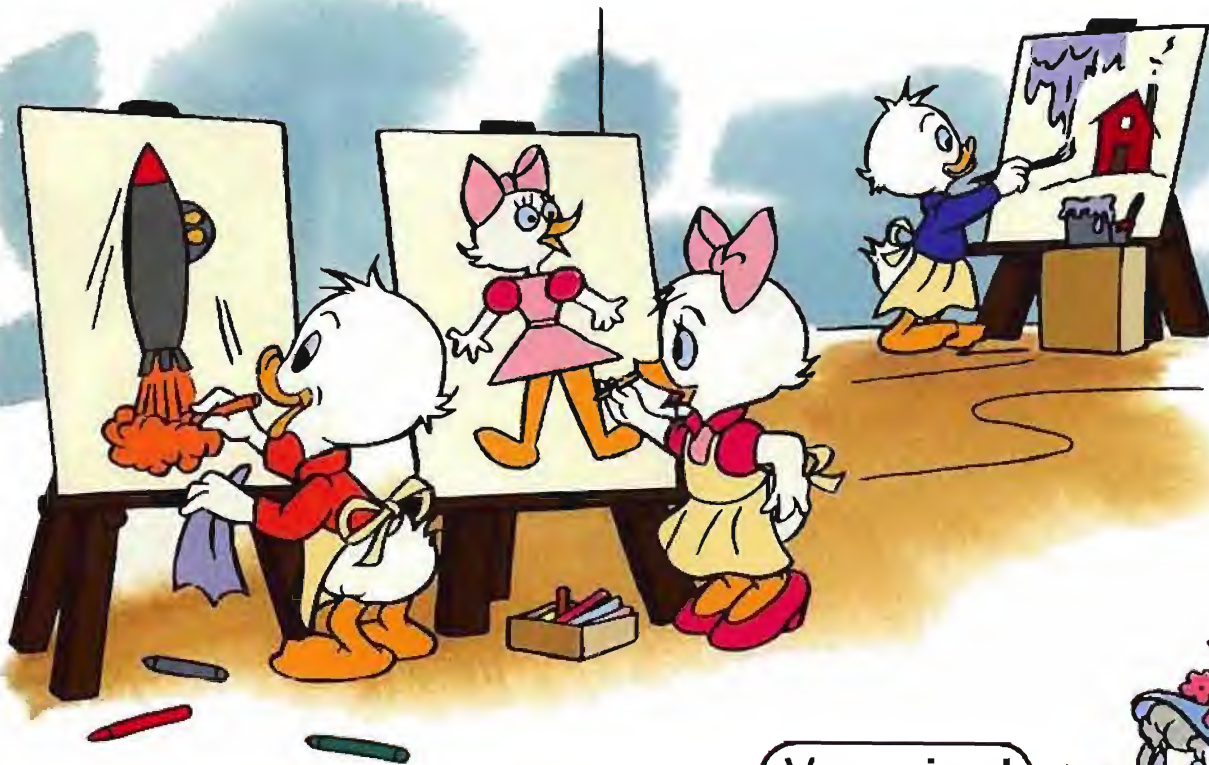

Everyone puts away his books and paper and pencils and goes to the lunch room.

Huey, Dewey, and Louie eat lunch with all their friends.
They eat the sandwiches that they brought from home.

After lunch, everyone in the class draws a picture.

When the pictures are finished, they show them to the teacher.

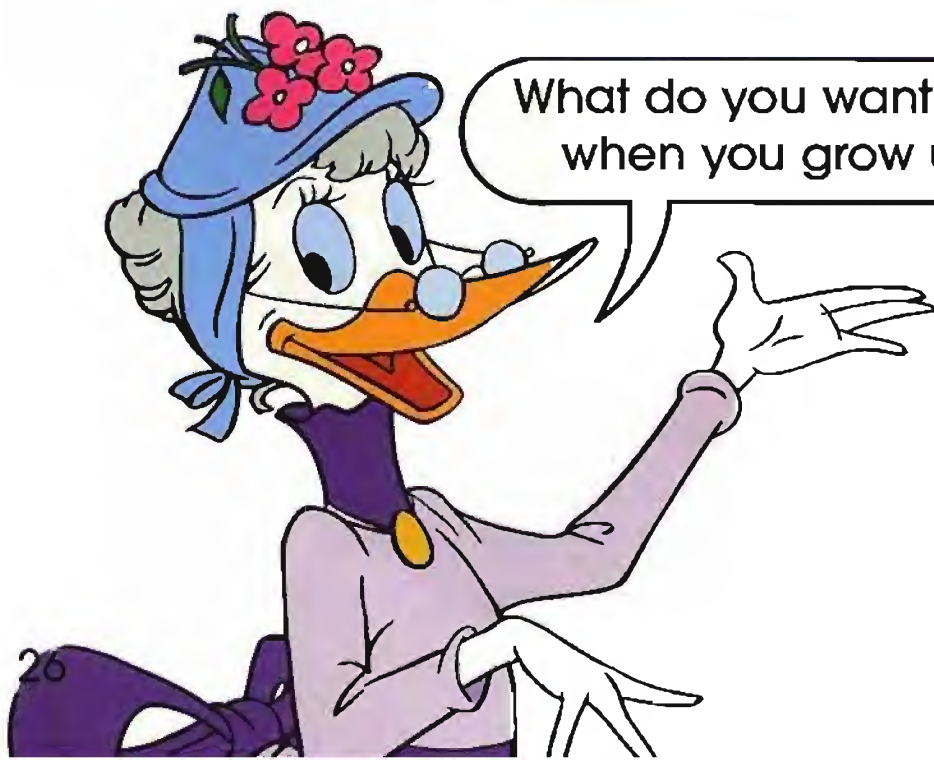

The teacher hangs Huey's picture on the wall. Huey is very proud!

What do you want to be when you grow up?

"When I grow up, I want to be a cowboy."

"When I grow up, I want to be a dancer."

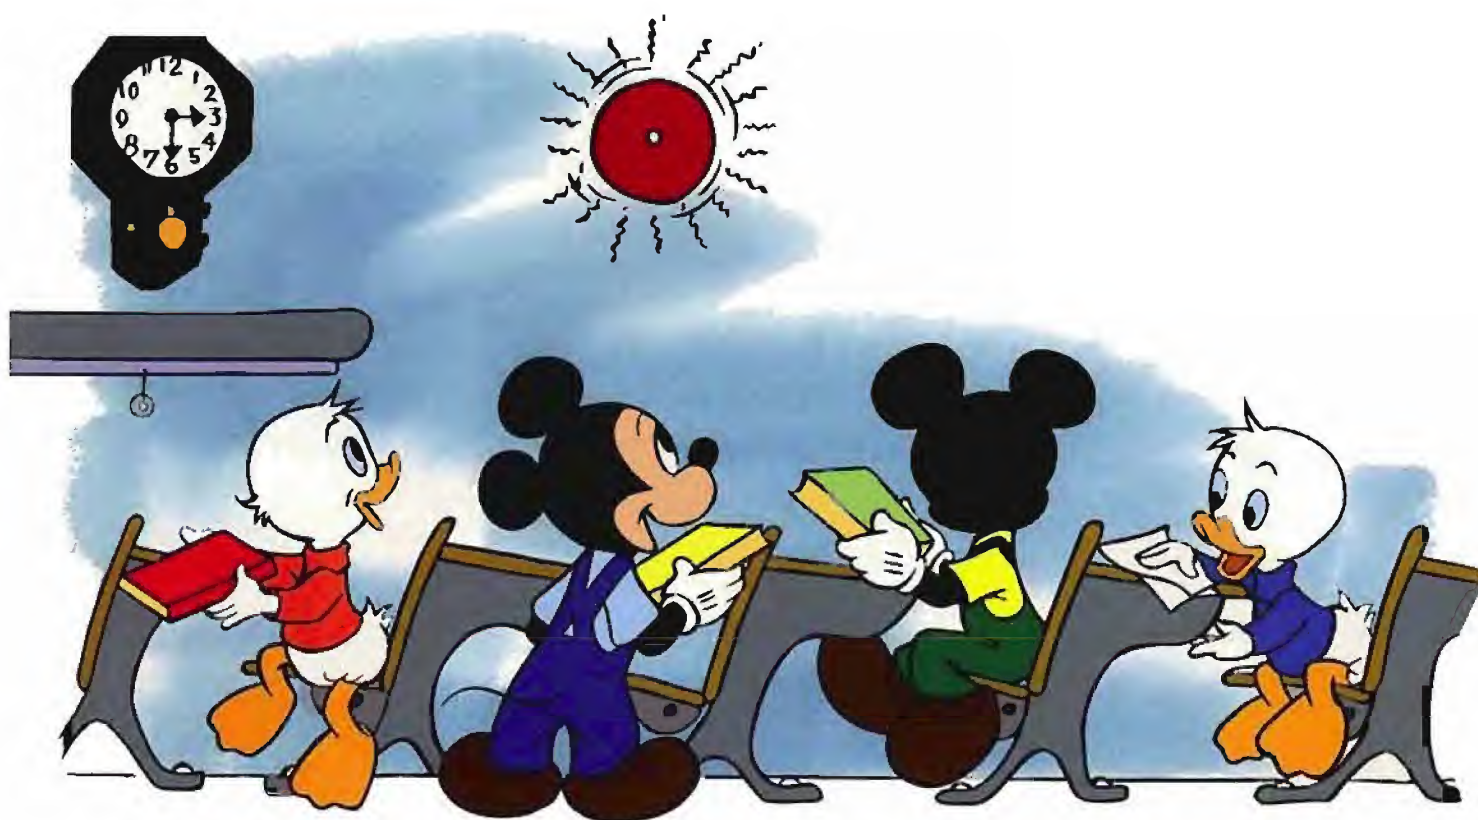

"When I grow up, I want to be a pilot."

"When I grow up, I want to be a doctor."

At 3:30 in the afternoon, school is over, and Huey, Dewey, and Louie go home.

On Saturday and Sunday, there is no school.
Today is Sunday, and Huey, Dewey, and Louie are going to the zoo.

The first person that they meet at the zoo is the zookeeper.
He tells them what they shouldn't do when they are at the zoo.

"Don't shake hands with a lion."

"Don't kiss a tiger good night."

"Never swing on an elephant's trunk."

"Don't hold a hippo too tight."

"Never eat a monkey's banana, or stand on a kangaroo's toes."

"Never paint a zebra's stripes, or tickle a bear on his nose."

Don't worry!
We won't do any of those things.

Have a good time, boys!

Huey, Dewey, and Louie don't know which way to go first.

There are so many animals at the zoo—
Monkeys, giraffes, and kangaroos,
Lions and tigers and elephants, too!

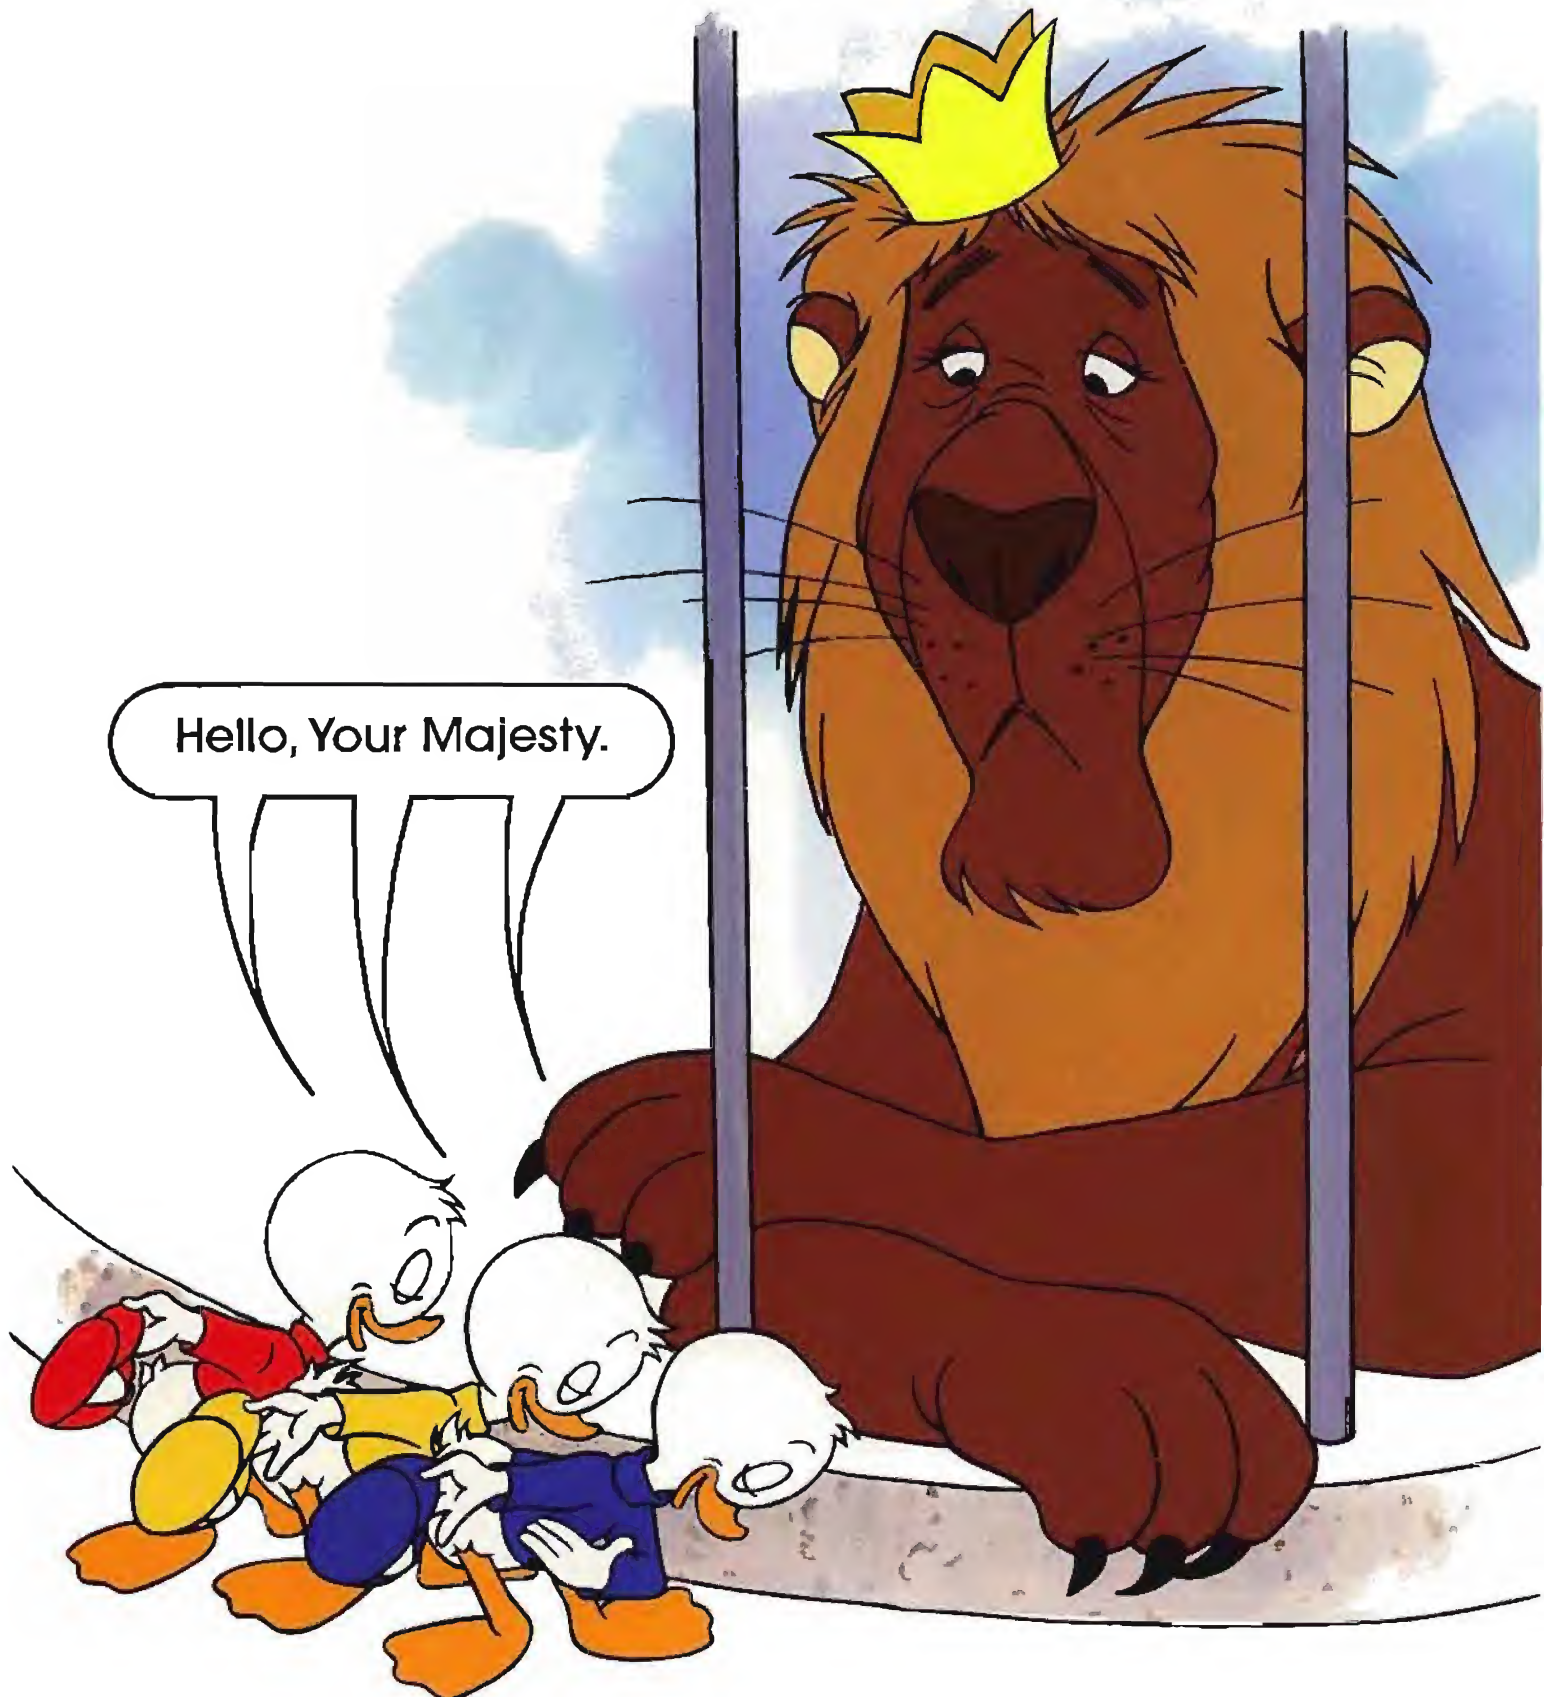

The lion is the king of all the animals in the zoo,
And that is why he wears a crown, just as all kings do.

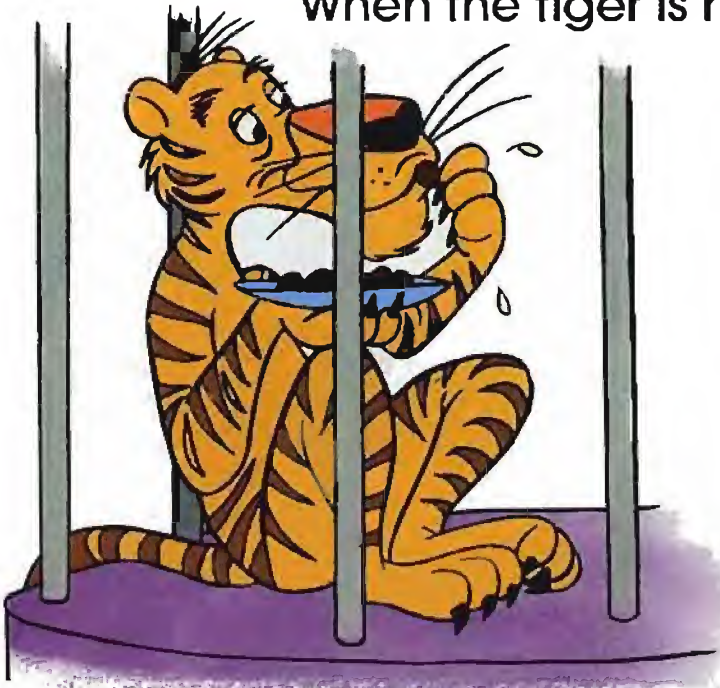

So when you're at the lion's cage, bow down very low,
And say, "Hello, Your Majesty," to show him that you know
That the lion is the king of all the animals in the zoo.

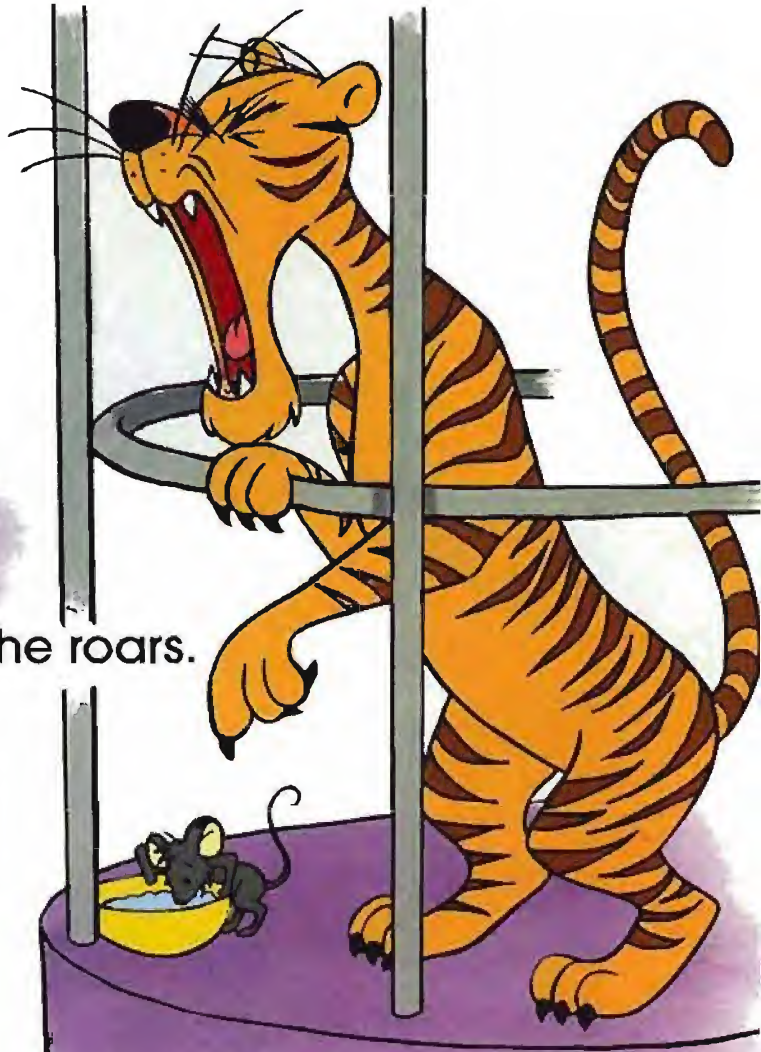

When the tiger is hungry, he eats.

When the tiger is angry, he roars.

When the tiger is thirsty, he drinks.

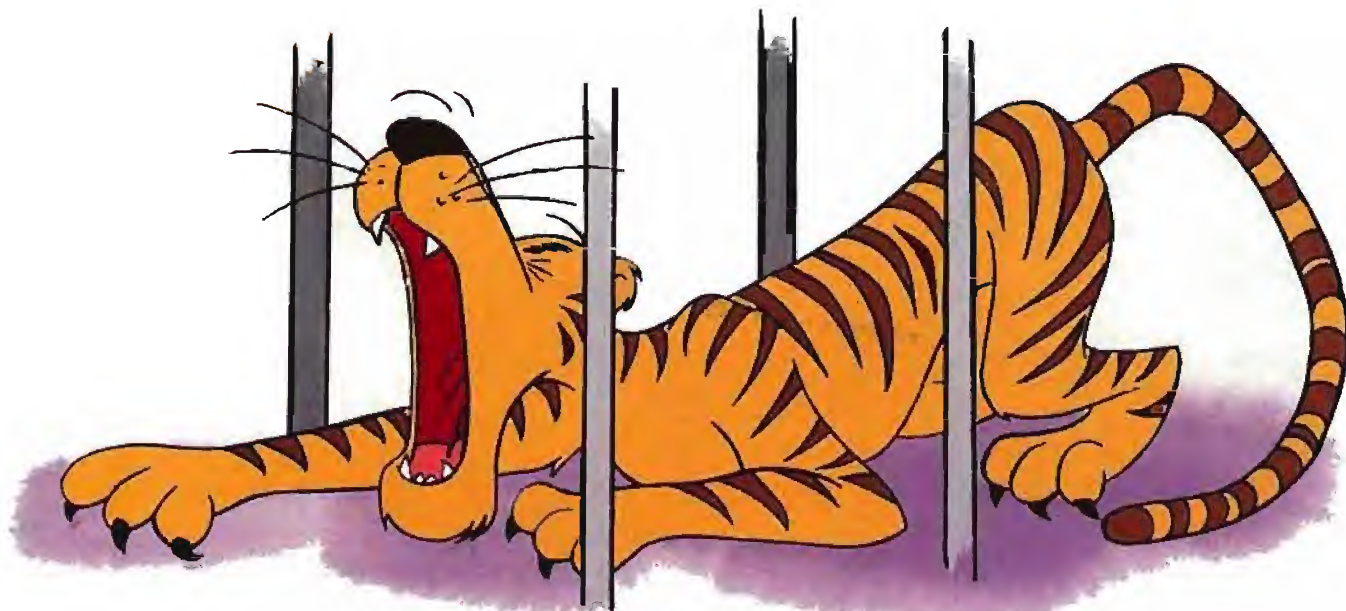

When the tiger's asleep, he snores.

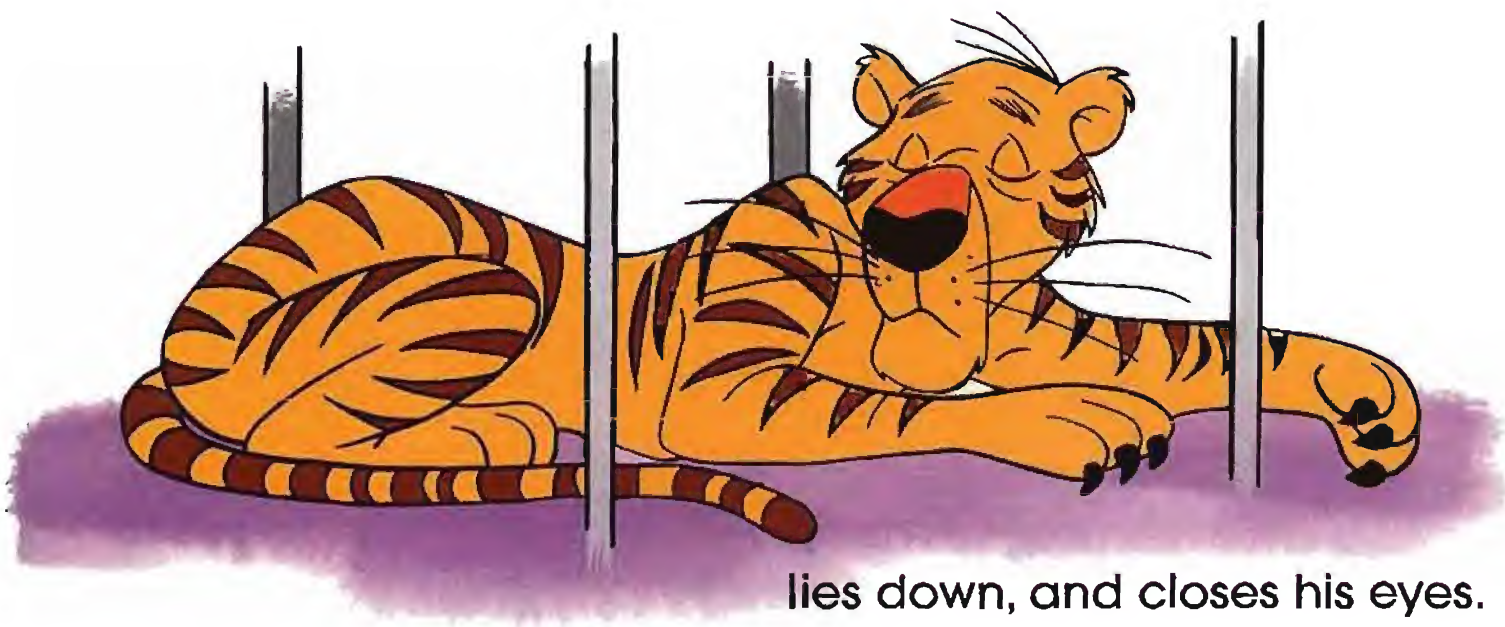

When the tiger is happy, he smiles.

When the tiger is sad, he cries.

When the tiger is sleepy, he yawns, lies down, and closes his eyes.

There is one giraffe at the zoo that is different from all of the others.

After they see the lion, the tiger, and the giraffes,
Huey, Dewey, and Louie go to see the hippopotamus.
The hippopotamus has very big teeth.

I wonder if hippos
go to the dentist.

Of course
they don't!

Hippos don't go to the dentist,
but if they did go, what would they do?

Open wide!

What beautiful teeth!
Do you brush them every day?

Every morning and every night!

The zebra has stripes all over the place—
Stripes of white and black.
He has stripes on his legs, on his tail, on his face,
And stripes running down his back.

Zebras don't live in houses,
but if they did,
what would a zebra's house look like?

Five funny monkeys live in the zoo,
and what one monkey does, the other four do!

If he smiles,

or hangs by his tail, or eats a banana—

so do the others!

If he dances,

or scratches his head,

or covers his ears—

so do the other four monkeys that live in the zoo.

Look! It's a mother kangaroo and her baby!

A baby kangaroo jumps wherever his mother jumps.

A baby kangaroo visits whoever his mother visits.

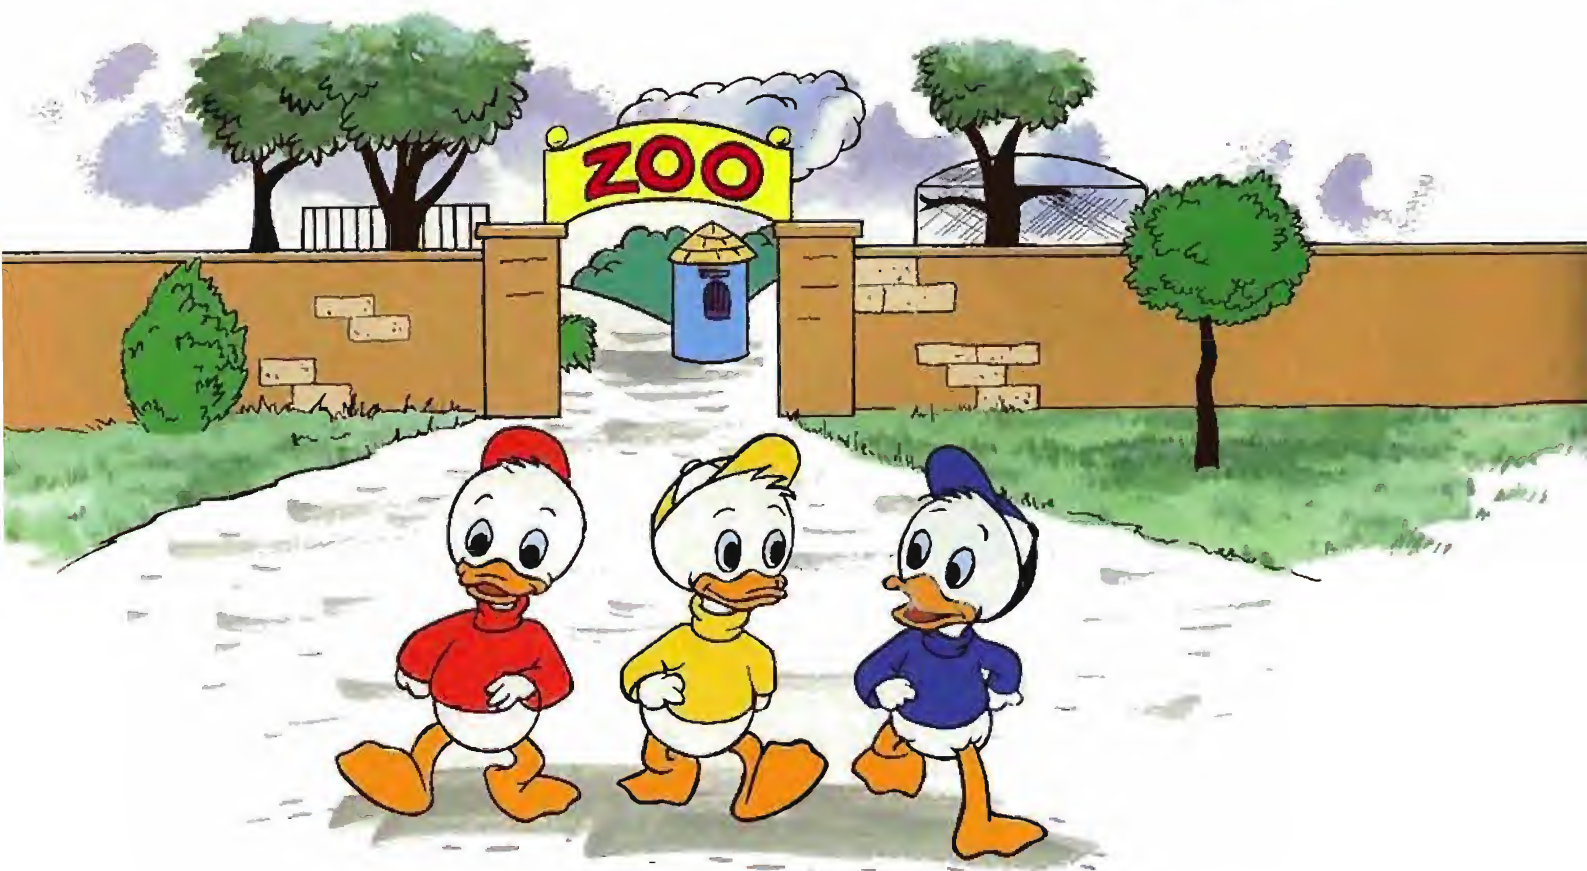

A baby kangaroo eats whatever his mother eats.

And a baby kangaroo sleeps whenever his mother sleeps.

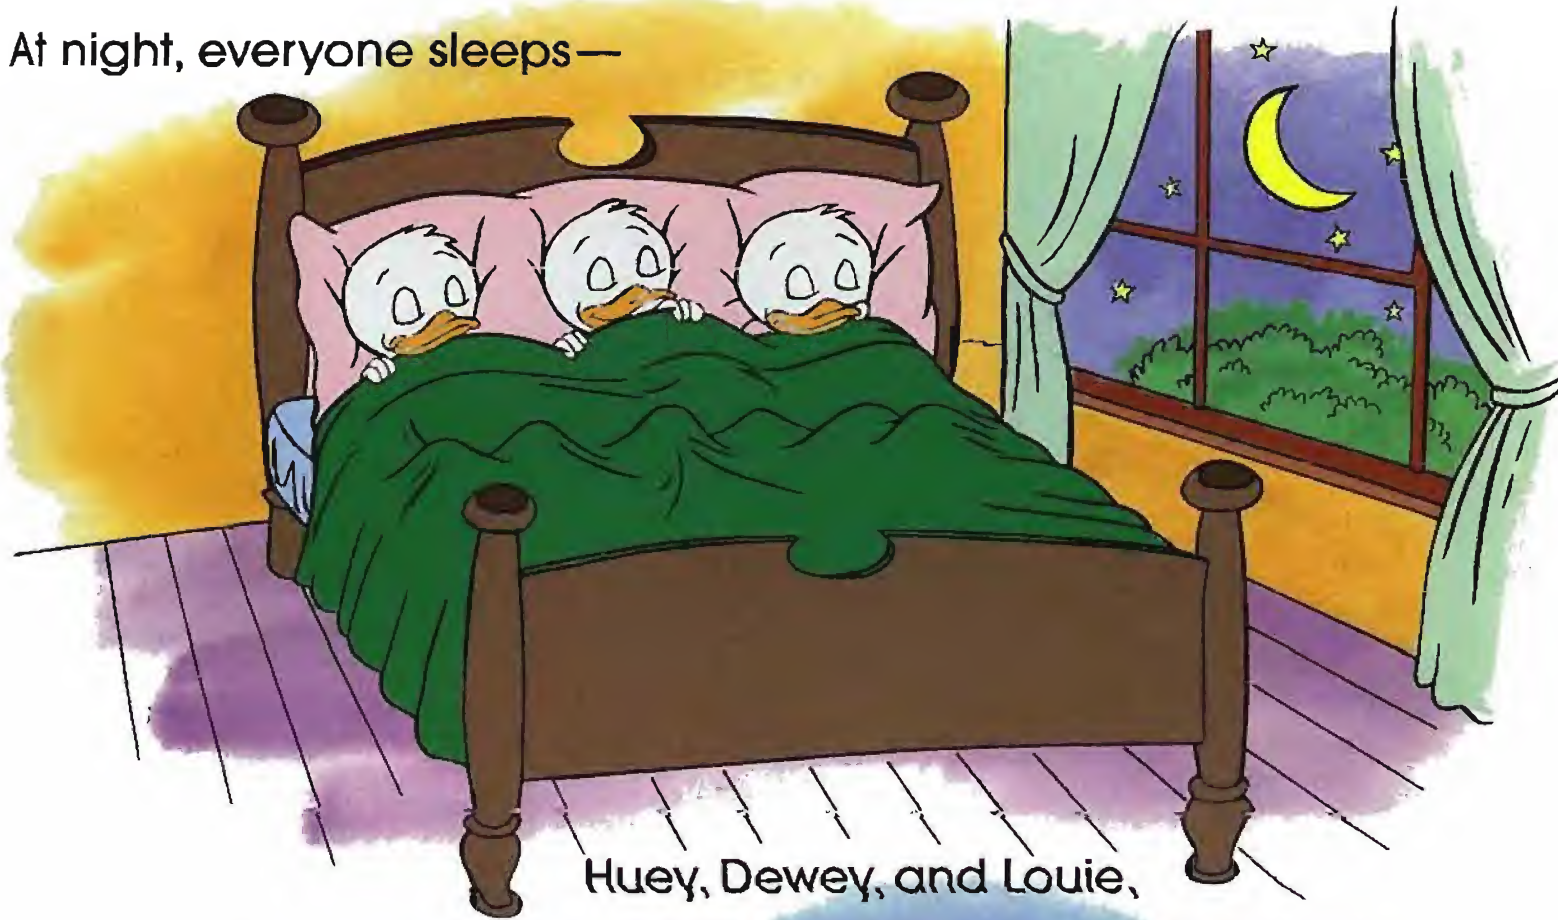

Every evening, the mother kangaroo takes her baby to see the sunset.

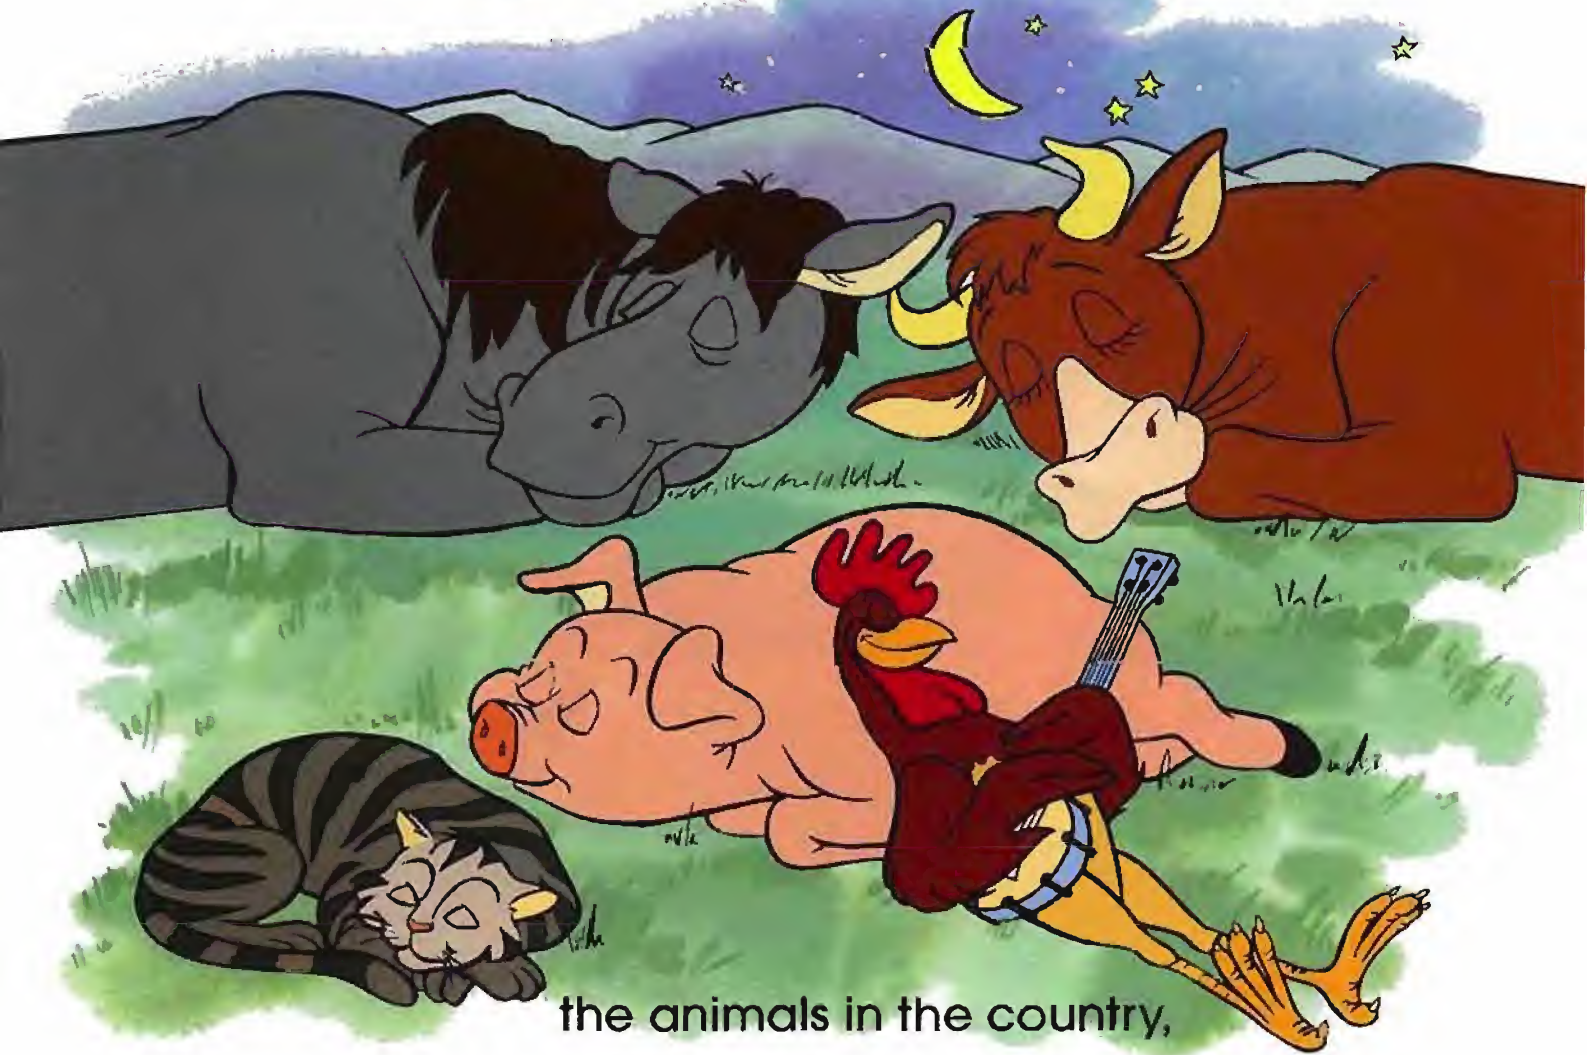

When the sun goes down, it's time to say goodbye to all the animals in the zoo and go home.

At night, everyone sleeps—

Huey, Dewey, and Louie,

the animals in the country,

...and all the animals in the zoo.
